Laotian cabinet members quit

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Five Laotian cabinet ministers closely identified with U.S. policies have resigned under mounting pressure from student groups and labor leaders, highly placed sources said today.

The reported resignations mean Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma will have to reshuffle his cabinet and seem certain to mean the Communist-line Pathet Lao, who hold six cabinet portfolios under the terms of the 1973 cease-fire agreement, will emerge in a vastly strenghened position.

Word of the resignations came as Laotian students angered over rising prices threw rocks at the U.S. Embassy and tried to haul down the American flag. A U.S. Marine grabbed the flag from two students before it hit the ground and police drove the students from the compound.

The reported resignations include Defense Minister Sisouk Na Champassak and Finance Minister Ngon Sananikone, the sources said. There was no offical confirmation. Ngon was reported to have left for Thailand on his way to Paris. Sisouk was believed to be in the southern Mekong river town of Pakse.

Others who reportedly resigned were Khamphay Abphay, minister of public health, Tianethone Chantharasy, deputy minister for foreign affairs and Houmphanh Sayasith, deputy minister for public works.

The resignation of these most powerful figures virtually eliminates the rightist faction in Laos. It follows the reported but unconfirmed resignations of Gen. Vang Pao, commander of military Region 2, and Gen. Thonglith Chokebeng-boung, commander of military Region 5 which includes Vientiane and the Vientiane plain.

Vang Pao, who commanded the CIA-financed Meo guerrilla army in the mountains north of Vientiane, is particularly detested by the Pathet Lao.

Observers said the resignations, coupled with an order by Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma to the rightist forces not to fight Pathet Lao forces, appear to be the beginning of the final act leading to a peaceful Pathet Lao takeover.

Meanwhile, the exodus of wealthy Lao, Chinese and Vietnamese continued. Scores of cars lined up at the ferry waiting to cross the Mekong River to Thailand.

Planes leaving Vientiane were booked solid days ahead. The Thai, American and French embassies were crowded with people applying for visas.

Although many shops in the once flourishing business district of Vientiane were shuttered — and those open were almost bereft of goods to sell — there has been no sign of the panic rush that marked the exodus from Saigon before it fell.

The U.S. Embassy denied it was evacuating Americans from Laos but an embassy spokesman said the number of Americans in Laos had dropped and would continue to do so as part of a long range cutback program.

The demonstration took place against a background of isolated outbreaks of fighting between the Pathet Lao and Vientiane sides. However, western military sources unanimously reject reports that the clashes are part of a Pathet Lao military offensive.

Award-winning soloists to perform

Sikeston High School's first place winners in state solo competition will be featured in an outdoor pop concert at the school at 8 p.m. May 15. From left are Kevin Heuiser, baritone saxophone, and Greg Danner and Janice Teague, French horn winners in the state contest April 25-26 at Columbia. They will perform with both high school bands, the stage band and a trmombone sextet.

Refugee aid is closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is demonstrating solid support for emergency aid to Indochina refugees but not for the full $507 million requested by President Ford.

There were some indications that aid might not be approved so quickly as Ford wants, despite these actions in Congress on Thursday:

—The House Judiciary committee voted to approve an unlimited authorization bill for the refugees.

—The House foreign operations appropriations subcommittee, which sets the dollar amounts to be spent, approved $405 million in aid, a cut from Ford's $507 million request.

—The Senate voted 91 to 1 to welcome the refugees.

—By voice vote, the Senate approved use of leftover Vietnam military aid money for the refugees.

However, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called for "time for thought and deliberation."

Ford had hoped for action by next week but only House action is now expected by that time. The Senate cannot act until it receives the measure from the House, where all money bills must originate.

Ford's request for $507 million for up to 150,000 refugees was cut by the appropriations subcommittee with the idea of prorating it to the about 114,000 refugees that have actually been counted so far.

Subcommittee members contended some of the figures in Ford's estimate were clearly overstated but said the fact is that Congress has no idea how much the refugee programs will finally cost and that they likely will climb above $507 million.

Judiciary Committee approval of the unlimited authorization clears the way for House action next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Guitars stolen at Advance

BLOOMFIELD--The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department is investigating two break-ins which occured sometime Thursday night.

Bishop's Music Store in Advance was robbed of three guitars valued at $1,970. Entry was gained by breaking the front window.

The office of Dr. Robert Gibben, located on One Mile Road in Dexter, was also burglarized. Entry was gained through the probation and parole office, located adjacent to the doctor's office.

Authorities have not yet determined if anything was taken in the break-in.

Bernie man seriously hurt

BERNIE — Archie Leon Hester, 46, of Route One was seriously injured in a single-vehicle accident at 5:40 a.m. today on Route U five miles west town.

The accident occurred when Hester lost control of his west-bound pickup truck on a curve and the vehicle ran off the road and overturned.

He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

Man robbed early today

Owen Hazlett of Dematte, Ind., told police that he was robbed of $4.34 about 1 a.m. today at the rear of Kellett's Restaurant on South Main Street.

Hazlett said he got off the bus he was riding when it stopped at the bus station. After he got off, he was stopped by two men, one of whom told him to walk to the rear of Kelletts "If you know what's good for you."

When he got there, the other man took his money, he told police.

Player and tapes stolen

CHAFFEE — Dan Tankersley of Gordonville reported a tape player and 15 tapes were stolen from his car while it was parked on Fire Tower Road near Lake Tywappity Thursday night.

Scoptt County Sheriff John Dennis said Gordon reported his car had broken down and that he had left it about three hours.

When he got back about 7 p.m., he discovered the player and tapes were missing.

The estimated value of the loss was placed at $110.

4 jailed for jewelry theft

Two men and two women from Atlanta, Ga., were being held in the Cairo, Ill., jail today following their arrest for the theft of 12 diamond rings from C. H. Yanson Jewelry Store, 134 E. Front St., about 5 p.m. Thursday.

Police declined to identify the four persons in custody, but said the two couples range from 22 to 32 years old.

The theft occurred when the four walked into the jewelry store and asked about seeing some gifts. While owner Charles H. Yanson was showing them a line of gifts, one of the men allegedly opened a display case at the other end of the counter and took a tray containing 12 diamond rings.

Yanson discovered the display case was open as the four left. About that time a witness told him she saw one of the men taking the rings while she was standing outside the store.

Yanson stepped outside and the four began running. They jumped into their car and drove away.

They were arrested a short time later by Cairo police as they crossed the Mississippi River bridge into Illinois.

When they were taken to the Cairo police station, one of the women was allegedly caught trying to hide the rings. She had been hiding the rings in her underwear, police said.

While only 12 rings were taken from Yanson's, 20 rings were found, police said. The other eight may be from a theft that took place Wednesday at Pind's Jewelry Store, 4 N. Main St., Cape Girardeau. Two trays of rings were taken in that theft.

Total value of the 20 rings received was estimated to be $4,900, police said.

The four have waived extradition, police said.

Chase suspect jailed

CHARLESTON — A Wickliffe, Ky. man involved in a high-speed chase early this morning which involved three police departments and the Missouri Highway Patrol and extended into three states, is being held in the Mississippi County Jail.

Troy Keith Stewart, 23, driver of the car, has been charged by Mississippi County authorities with failure to stop for a red light, speeding, failure to stop at stop signs, driving on the wrong side of the road and supplying liquor to minors.

Two passengers in the car -- Bonita Sue Howell, 18, of Wickliffe, Ky. and Kenneth Andrew Moore, 17, of Barlow, Ky. -- have been charged with underage possession of intoxicating liquor.

The case started at Wickliffe about 12:15 a.m. today when city police attempted to stop Stewart for careless and imprudent driving. He took off at a high rate of speed. The police pursued him into Cairo, Ill., at which time the Cairo City Police joined in the chase.

Trooper Robert Eddleman of the Missouri Highway Patrol said the chase then came into Missouri. He joined the chase at Highways 80 and 102, tried to

Loitering arrest stirs controversy

BLOOMFIELD — A controversy stemming from the arrest of a local man under the city's new loitering ordinance was the major topic of discussion at Thursday night's City Council meeting.

The controversy developed when Ray Champ was arrested by City Marshal Byron Phillips under the new ordinance, which prohibits loitering after 11 p.m. on weekdays and Sunday and after midnight on Saturdays.

Champ's mother told the City Council she felt Phillips acted out of line when he sprayed mace in Champ's face. She said she could understand a citation, but the spraying of mace was unnecessary.

She also stated the group included several young men, and if one was arrested, all should have been. She said there seems to be some sort of feud between Phillips and her son.

Phillips defended himself by stating that he is being paid to enforce the law and that he felt it necessary to show this particular group of young men who was running the town.

"We are not talking about juveniles," one alderman said. "These yung men are between the ages of 18 and 28, and they have stated that their goal is to get the marshal fired. They are constantly harassing him."

"We have a police judge to handle these matters," Mayor Glenn Ayers told the group. "Every defendant has a right to plead guilty or not guilty. We try to leave such matters up to him. We cannot encourage the people of this town to run to the City Council every time a ticket is handed out.

"We tried our best to get a recreation center for Bloomfield's young people last October so that they would have a place to go," Ayers continued. "We also faced a lot of opposition for trying to get the center. It seems we are constantly opposed by one side or the other."

In other action, the results of the Community Betterment Program attitude self survey was presented to the council by chairman Jim Mayo.

Listed under the most needed services in Bloomfield was a taxi service and an additional doctor, dentist and an ambulance stationed in town, more housing and a youth center.

Listed under cultural improvements was a historical museum and restoration of old homes, forts and cemeteries. Other improvements called for included better schools, streets and police department.

Additional recreational facilities for teen-agers seemed to be the most destired improvement favored by the the people who responded to the poll, which included both rural and city residents.

William Cannon and Riley Brown Jr. of Sikeston appeared before the council to discuss the possibility of operating a taxi service in Bloomfield. The service would consist of two cars operating 24 hours per day.

The matter was tabled until a suitable downtown location can be found.

The council voted to apply for inclusion in the federal flood insurance program. Without the insurance, future home builders would be unable to secure federal loans in flood-designated areas.

A dog vaccination clinic was set for May 16 at the fire station. Dogs will be vaccinated between 3 and 5 p.m.

E. Prairie Council approves budget

EAST PRAIRIE — The 1975-76 budget, submitted by City Manager Frank Carter, was approved Thursday night by the City Council.

Estimated revenue for the coming year totaled $382,000, including an estimated $35,000 in anticipated funds from the city's one-cent sales tax. Collection of the tax will begin Oct. 1. However, remittance of the tax by the state will not begin until about Jan. 1, 1976.

Total revenue collected during the past year was $345,185.88.

Estimated disbursements for 1975-76 were set at $325,675. This amount is approximately $98,875 lower than 1974-75 expenditures of $424,549.41.

In presenting the budget, Carter said he planned to stay within the estimated expenditures and possibly trim down the amount. One area in which he plans to economize is on the purchase of a new police car.

He proposed to buy a small model vehicle with power brakes and steering and a heavy duty battery that has a list price of $3,700. The oldest police car will be traded in and revenue-sharing money will be used for the purchase.

Carter said a small truck, purchased for the water department at a cost of $2,585 plus trade-in, was proving the feasibility of using a smaller vehicle.

The council authorized Carter to meet with the Waters & Associates engineering firm of Sikeston for a discussion about smoke tests of the sewer system to determine if there are leaks. The tests will only be made if federal funds are available to share the cost.

An agreement with See-Mor Cable TV was approved, whereby the cost of the service, when available to local residents, would be $6 per month until a microwave system is added. The cost would then increase to $7.50 monthly. Anyone desiring this service would be required to pay a $10 installation fee. The city would receive three per cent of the profits.

City Clerk Webb DeField and Mrs. Vernon Pritchett, city treasurer, were rehired by the council for two-year terms.

The need for rural fire protection program was discussed, and Carter was instructed to seek information on programs used in other cities. Firemen are now answering calls to outlying communities, and the persons who call for fire department assistance are then billed for the service.

This is not proving satisfactory, since the city has not been paid in some cases, it was pointed out.

The need for closer inspection of buildings being constructed in the city's fire zone was also emphasized.

The council agreed to pay the light bills at H. A. Jones park for the summer Little League baseball program. A minimum fee of $10 per night will be charged for anyone else desiring to use the ball park when it is not in use by the city's baseball programs.

In routine action, the collector's report of $26,338.61 for April and monthly expenditures totaling $12,942.94 were approved. The police judge report showed a total of $917 assessed in fines.

HARD-HEARTED KREMLIN

Hardly a week seems to pass but that the iron grip which the Soviet government maintains over the lives of its citizens is not exposed in all its petty vindictiveness and viciousness.

Recently, for example, there was the touching story of actress Victoria Fyodorva, the "love child" of a World War II romance between an American admiral stationed in Moscow and a Russian actress. The girl's simple request for a visa to visit the father she had never seen was at first refused, then abruptly granted.

The other day, nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, who because of his international renown is one of the few Soviet citizens who dares to speak his mind, reported that the authorities had refused to let his wife visit specialists in Italy for treatment of a wartime eye injury that threatens to leave her blind.

"We can only appeal to the world now," says Sakharov. "There is nothing else."

If world opinion has any influence in the Kremlin, and it has in the past, perhaps Mrs. Sakharov will be one of the few lucky ones. How many other such stories must there be that no one ever hears about, of ordinary Russians who merely ask for the same basic human rights people in any decent country take for granted?

CRACK DOWN ON CRIMINALS

This spring the newspapers of Virginia have been abuzz with the story of a man who fled there after allegedly murdering his girlfriend in Oregon by stabbing her repeatedly.

He was apprehended in Virginia recently. However, instead of being extradited back to the West Coast at the urging of law enforcement authorities there, the alleged killer was promptly released on bond and is free today while he await court proceedings.

Such reckless disregard for the public's right to safety has become all to common in recent years. Encouraged by a permissive Supreme Court which, among many other things, ruled against capital punishment in 1972, our overburdened legal system has compounded its own difficulties by not cracking down on criminals often enough.

To the credit of individual states, 32 of them already have responded to the 1972 decision by enacting mandatory death penalty statutes. Their action comes in the face of a violent crime spiral that has seen homicides alone increase by 60 per cent since 1967.

"The public," writes Washington D.C.'s recently retired police chief, Jerry Wilson, "has come to realize that 'life' sentences in reality mean incarceration for only a dozen years or so, and that the 'constructive' incarceration now in vogue often means that cruel murderers may be walking the streets within a few years, perhaps months."

Additional states hopefully will follow the lead of these 32 in enacting death penalty statutes. Although it is possible that the high court will attempt to void those laws at some point, public sentiment is probably now strong enough that a constitutional amendment accomplishing the same thing could be passed if necessary.

Capital punishment obviously isn't the only answer. President Ford's recent call for measures to ensure that convicted criminals are sent to prison for lesser offenses also should be heeded.

In short, it is well past time that law enforcement should be wrested fromthe hands of social tinkerers and put back into the strong hands of justice. Let's crack down on criminals!

Stop debating and Start Rebating

While Washington fiddles, the recession burns on.

One of the least productive arguments currently going on between Congress and the administraton is who should get the bulk of the income tax rebate and-or tax cut everyone agrees is needed to pump new life into the economy.

Weeks ago President Ford proposed a $12 billion rebate on 1974 taxes for individuals, with a maximum of $1,000 per return. The higher the tax paid, the higher the rebate. This has been much criticized because some 40 per cent of the rebate would go to families making more than $20,000 a year.

The House has passed its own $21.3-billion version of a rebate-tax cut, with most of it flowing to lower-income groups that have been hardest hit by inflation and recession. The Senate is expected to up this figure.

Rebates under the House bill would generally be about 10 per cent, but with a maximum of $200 per return and a minimum of $100 or a total refund of all taxes paid, whichever is less.

This in turn has been criticized by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon on the ground that lower-income families would not spend the money where it would do the most good to help revive the economy.

Higher-income families, says Simon, are more likely to spend their windfall on such major items as cars, houses and home appliances, whereas lower-income families will use it for such basic necessities as food, rent, etc.

Nobody really knows for sure, however.

For instance, a survey conducted early in March by the Credit Union National Assn. found that of 2,613 credit union members in 44 states who participated in the survey (and who presumably cut across eseveral income tax brackets), only 15 per cent indi ated they would spend the entire rebate on new purchases. Existing debts would be paid off by 30 per cent and 27 per cent planned to put it all into savings. Another 26 per cent said they would save some and spend some.

It is questionable whether it really matters what people would do with their 1974 tax rebates and the extra income they will have by virtue of a tax cut for 1975.

If some spend it on day-to-day living expenses, this would at least put money into immediate circulation and would help such sectors of the economy as the food and clothing business.

If others used it primarily to pay off debts, this would swell the amount of funds in the hands of lenders to be made available for others wanting to borrow so that they can buy things like cars and refrigerators.

If still others banked all or part of it, this too would increase the supply of lending capital, which is desperately needed in the depressing housing industry.

Only if Americans planned to hide the money in a cookie jar or under the floor or just sit and admire it, would it be cause for concern-and that, we can be sure, few peple in any income bracket are going to do.

Rather than worrying about who will spend how much how soon and on what, we should determine what would be the fairest possible disbursement, and then start getting this money to the people without further delay.

DESTRUCTIVE COMPETITION

The idea that "in all times and all places competition is good and monopolies are bad and that, regardless of the costs and consequences, the former should supplant the latter" is ridiculous. Yet that is the essence of the current controversy over allowing more competition in the U.S. telephone industry. If this conflict is not resolved satisfactorily, most Americans will inevitably be paying higher telephone rates for poorer service.

Basically, critics are asking that the smooth operation of "... the most highly developed communications service in the world ...." be interrupted by "... regulated competition, a division of the marketplace arbitrarily imposed and artificially maintained." Under such a system, customers can connect their own telephone equipment, virtually at will, directly to the nationwide network. Broadly practiced, this would result in chaos.

As one telephone industry spokesman notes, " What has been accomplished by the common carrier principle down through the years is embodied in the nationwide switched network, a technological achievement unmatched in scale and complexity and the precision of its operations. Capable...of performing any one of seven million billion possible interconnections, this network is too valuable a resource to risk a perhaps irreversible threat to its performance that would ensue from fragmentation of responsibility for that per formance. Such fears are not misplaced. There is substantial evidence indicating that on telephone system lines with interconnections of customer-provided equipment, trouble report rates are significantly higher than on similar lines without such interconnections.

Contrived competition would be advantageous for some, but most people would be hurt. In such a free-for-all, the traditional objective of serving the common good under public regulation could not be maintained -- nor could "value of service" pricing, in which higher charges to businesses for special services permit lower charges to residential customers.

It is time to call a "moratorium on further experiments in economics" before the devastating impact of the interconnection of customer-provided equipment proves fatal to the efficiency of our vital telecommunications system.

EXTINCTION REALLY NOT NECESSARY

Man has looked extinction in the eye many times -- and laughed in its face. Though prophets of doom were forever murmuring in the background, man stubbornly pushed ahead, harnessing the Earth's resources, developing technological superiority and building civilization.

Now we stand on the threshold of yet another era, the Hydrogen Age, and there are those who fear we cannot make the transition. "Extinction" is again on many tongues as some physical and social scientiest predict the crumbling of society beneath the weight of overpopulation, starvation and depletion of finite natural resources. That is a grim forecast with a very important flaw in it. It fails to give "... full credit to one key element, the technical ingenuity of this and succeeding generations and the exponential growth of that ingenuity." Such studies neglect to take into account the resourcefulness of man.

As the chairman and chief executive of Rockwell International, one of our nation's leading aerospace and industrial manufacturing concerns, has said: "We have the technical capability to achieve ... our environmental goals ... Never before have we had access to so much knowledtge about this planet we live on. Never before have we been better equipped with the technological tools for survival. Not only can we avoid disaster, but with the proper intermesh of sociological and technological factors and the will of the world to survive, we can turn disaster into triumph and prosper with this planet for a millennium to come."

That is a challenge we cannot refuse -- for such a vision offers a concerte avenue to a future which holds the promise of vastly improving the earthly experience of all mankind.

Cities As Hostages..
First Inside Story of Nuclear Bomb Truck Transport Over U. S. Highways

WASHINGTON - Can a small band of terrorists rip off an Army, Navy, Air Force or Energy Research and Development Administration trailer- truck transporting nuclear weapons and special fissionable bomb-making nuclear material..

Can a major city be held as hostage by atomic blackmailers or as revolutionary strategy by such a band which need only hijack a nuclear weapons over-the-road transport truck..

Answer: Yes. Who says so.. Some of the nation's top scientists and ERDA officials. And the General Accounting Office which just the other day charged the Army and Navy with laxity in conveying such thermonuclear explosives.

And there is Carl Glines, investigative managing editor of a respected trade magazine, the Commercial Car Journal, which knows more about trucking than Hannibal knew about elephants.

When I learned that Glines had written an inside piece on nuclear weapon transport for his June edition -- and a mighty hairy-scary one at that -- I talked with him. This is one of the most startling detailings of the movement of atomic explosives ever written. I asked him about his sources. They're solid. So is he.

"In talking with my source... I came away with the very strong feeling that the nuclear energy community, specially ERDA, which replaced AEC, is really scared ... that a terrorist group will seize a load of this freight," says Glines. "Even when talking with my source again he repeated those fears. There is no question there are some very worried people at ERDA and in other nuclear installations regarding the security of this material. It is all very scary."

In his report Glines discloses that ERDA officials confirmed for the first time it has a fleet of 10 tractor- trailers which move the nuclear warheads. These are headquartered in Albuquerque, N. M., and Amarillo, Tex. Not far from Los Alamos and the Sandia Air Base.

These science-fiction type vans criss-cross the nation laden with the nuclear bombs. Last year they rolled over a million miles of U. S. highways costing ERDA (old AEC) some $40 million to protect the shipments. These trailers- trucks were manufactued secretly by the Marmon Co. of Dallas under ERDA "Safe-Secure" designs.

These are 40-foot, all steel trailers. Empty they weigh 37,500 lbs. These trailers-trucks, daily used to carry "the most dangerous and destructive material and weapons known to mankind," carry special armored plating. They have bullet-proof window glass designed to protect the two armed drivers.

The air-conditioned cabs pulling the trailers are equipped with a "powerful and highly sensitive communications system." There is a back-up unit. It links each tractor-trailer with an ERDA-engineered high-frequency communications system operating nationwide.

The heart of this ERDA communications network is a fleet of five "Winnebago campers" jam-packed with sensitive still- classified communications and electronic tracking equipment.

In addition to this dual system each tractor is equipped with a VHF radio and a radio telephone, says Glines. These link the drivers with a government escort -- the "chase car." This vehicle always follows each nuclear bomb-carrying unit.

Further, the Safe-Secure trailers have built in equipment which would immobilize them if halted or hijacked. This should seal it from any looters, bandits, garden variety blackmailers or the type of terrorist bands now apparently operating freely across Europe.

As for the environmentalists, they should know that the trailers have special gear to resist fires, lightning or electromagnetic radiation.

And they have other equipment to withstand "abnormal environments of explosion, collision and tornadoes," according to ERDA officials.

Thus ERDA appears to have the best protective system for moving modern bombs -- which always have been transported over our roads through our nation's history. But these bombs are different. So are their ingredients. Such as plutonium, which the specialists say can make quite a lethal tremor with even an ounce and a half in the wrong hands.

The weakness in atomic bomb shipments, according to the many authorities, is in the Army and Navy systems. They ship in commercial trucks. One shipment actually has gone unguarded, driven by unarmed truckers. ERDA drivers and mechanics have Q and L clearances. Not all the others have, it is reported.

And the Army has no aerial (helicopter) surveillance. And the General Accounting Office says there must be immediate protection. And the specialists and scientists say move swiftly or one of our cities may yet be held for ransom. Like sex these days, it's all out in the open. Let's report it. Let's talk about it. The atomic bomb transport system has been a forbidden discussion piece. If we want one nation indivisible in one piece let's protect these shipments.

How Jacqueline Differs from Other Great Ladies
By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--Our columns about the private world of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis produced a Vesuvius of angry denials and denunciations.

Individual answers to all the letters are impossible, so we will attempt an omnibus reply. We will offer, too, a few details that were crowded out of the original series.

An enormous investment of national interest, respect, affection and prestige was once made in Jacqueline Kennedy. She was a factor in the imagery surrounding John F. Kennedy's rise to the presidency and in the glittering aura cast by his administration.

As First Lady, she occupied the position of a national exemplar. There is, therefore, a continuing interest in her that does not cease at a convenient moment, an interest in the key events of her life, in how she conducts herself.

There is an historical interest, too, in what kind of person she was at the time when she was a symbol of America, the cynosure of all eyes. Historians are still probing and analyzing the behavior of Mary Todd Lincoln and Eleanor Roosevelt before, during and after their White House years. So it must continue to be with Jacqueline Kennedy.

For still other reasons she is a particular lightning rod for public attention. Her choice of lifestyle, which by ordinary standards is exotic, attracts the spotlight.

The Jacqueline Kennedy who in the years of Camelot and the days of Dallas won a place in the nation's heart and imagination left the White House with a prestige that could have been a tremendous force for good.

When fate bestows a staggering opportunity to serve mankind, it also inflicts a responsibility that supersedes private inclinations. Eleanor Roosevelt took up that burden; Coretta King has taken it up. Jacqueline Kennedy has shirked it, pursuing instead luxury, languor, gowns, jewels and the wheedling of unearned wealth.

Her reign as queen of the jet set has been chronicled largely by the gossip writers who report the bon mots, the pouts and the whims of the social butterflies. Our columns, on the contrary, were not based at all upon gossip dropped at posh parties.

The late Aristotle Onassis himself piqued our interest by inviting us to his favorite Manhattan restaurant last December for a private talk. It turned out to be his last conversation with a newsman.

He had little to say about his famous wife except for a mild complaint about her extravagance and her horsy friends. But we learned afterwards that he had indicated to his closest associates that we could be trusted. This led some of them to confide in us after his death.

We were also shown private papers, letters and other documents. We spent three weeks pursuing every lead and checking out every detail. For Jackie's side of the story, we spoke to several of her friends, and we offered to go over every allegation with her personally.

We reported thereafter that the huge Onassis estate will be controlled by daughter Christina, not wife Jacqueline, and that the marriage had been preceded by a written contract providing a cash settlement on Jacqueline of at least $3 million in tax-free bonds.

She also received a spending allowance, which began at $30,000 a month but was cut to $20,000 by Onassis in protest over her spending habits. She had other perquisites such as charge privileges in the famous shopping emporiums of the world.

We reported further that Jacqueline systematically converted gowns, gifts and other indulgences of Onassis into cash by selling them off at fashionable New York City resale houses.

As signs accumulated that the largesse was ending, Jackie reacted by intensifying her efforts. During her husband's final illness, she went on a shopping spree at Bloomingdale's.

A close friend of the Onassises told us: "She thought it might be her last fling. She is so avaricious, so greedy." But her secretary, Nancy Tuckerman, claimed Jackie had to buy many items for her new home in New Jersey. "Life must go on," said Ms. Tuckerman.

Not long after the Onassis funeral, the indispensable Ms. Tuckerman was dispatched to the New York headquarters to inquire about the continuation of the allowance. Christina apparently is letting it continue.

If Jackie squandered her late husband's money, she was always tight with her own. She had to pay out of her own budget, for example, to repaint her Fifth Avenue apartment. Once, she called in a representative of the Union Square Painting Company and asked for estimates. When she found it would cost $3,000 for the paint work, she cancelled the project rather than spend the money.

She was lavish, however, with the money not only of her husband but of her friends.

During a fabulous few days in Tehran as guest of Iran's top oilman, Dr. Rexa Fallah, Jacqueline spent most of her time in the shops buying up expensive jewelry, antiques, artcraft, sheepskin boots and jackets, silk ties, lamps and other loot.

We have evidence that she charged everything to her host. Then afterwards, she announced that she was leaving a $700 check to be distributed among the servants. But no check was ever found.

Thus has Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, who had so much potential for good, chosen instead a life of uselessnes. Each year she consumes enough of the world's luxuries to provide necessities for hundreds of families.

Weeks ago President Ford proposed a $12 billion rebate on 1974 taxes for individuals, with a maximum of $1,000 per return. The higher the tax paid, the higher the rebate. This has been much criticized because some 40 per cent of the rebate would go to families making more than $20,000 a year.

The House has passed its own $21.3-billion version of a rebate-tax cut, with most of it flowing to lower-income groups that have been hardest hit by inflation and recession. The Senate is expected to up this figure.

Rebates under the House bill would generally be about 10 per cent, but with a maximum of $200 per return and a minimum of $100 or a total refund of all taxes paid, whichever is less.

This in turn has been criticized by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon on the ground that lower-income families would not spend the money where it would do the most good to help revive the economy.

Higher-income families, says Simon, are more likely to spend their windfall on such major items as cars, houses and home appliances, whereas lower-income families will use it for such basic necessities as food, rent, etc.

Nobody really knows for sure, however.

For instance, a survey conducted early in March by the Credit Union National Assn. found that of 2,613 credit union members in 44 states who participated in the survey (and who presumably cut across eseveral income tax brackets), only 15 per cent indi ated they would spend the entire rebate on new purchases. Existing debts would be paid off by 30 per cent and 27 per cent planned to put it all into savings. Another 26 per cent said they would save some and spend some.

It is questionable whether it really matters what people would do with their 1974 tax rebates and the extra income they will have by virtue of a tax cut for 1975.

If some spend it on day-to-day living expenses, this would at least put money into immediate circulation and would help such sectors of the economy as the food and clothing business.

If others used it primarily to pay off debts, this would swell the amount of funds in the hands of lenders to be made available for others wanting to borrow so that they can buy things like cars and refrigerators.

If still others banked all or part of it, this too would increase the supply of lending capital, which is desperately needed in the depressing housing industry.

Only if Americans planned to hide the money in a cookie jar or under the floor or just sit and admire it, would it be cause for concern-and that, we can be sure, few peple in any income bracket are going to do.

Rather than worrying about who will spend how much how soon and on what, we should determine what would be the fairest possible disbursement, and then start getting this money to the people without further delay.

DESTRUCTIVE COMPETITION

The idea that "in all times and all places competition is good and monopolies are bad and that, regardless of the costs and consequences, the former should supplant the latter" is ridiculous. Yet that is the essence of the current controversy over allowing more competition in the U.S. telephone industry. If this conflict is not resolved satisfactorily, most Americans will inevitably be paying higher telephone rates for poorer service.

Basically, critics are asking that the smooth operation of "... the most highly developed communications service in the world ...." be interrupted by "... regulated competition, a division of the marketplace arbitrarily imposed and artificially maintained." Under such a system, customers can connect their own telephone equipment, virtually at will, directly to the nationwide network. Broadly practiced, this would result in chaos.

As one telephone industry spokesman notes, " What has been accomplished by the common carrier principle down through the years is embodied in the nationwide switched network, a technological achievement unmatched in scale and complexity and the precision of its operations. Capable...of performing any one of seven million billion possible interconnections, this network is too valuable a resource to risk a perhaps irreversible threat to its performance that would ensue from fragmentation of responsibility for that per formance. Such fears are not misplaced. There is substantial evidence indicating that on telephone system lines with interconnections of customer-provided equipment, trouble report rates are significantly higher than on similar lines without such interconnections.

Contrived competition would be advantageous for some, but most people would be hurt. In such a free-for-all, the traditional objective of serving the common good under public regulation could not be maintained -- nor could "value of service" pricing, in which higher charges to businesses for special services permit lower charges to residential customers.

It is time to call a "moratorium on further experiments in economics" before the devastating impact of the interconnection of customer-provided equipment proves fatal to the efficiency of our vital telecommunications system.

EXTINCTION REALLY NOT NECESSARY

Man has looked extinction in the eye many times -- and laughed in its face. Though prophets of doom were forever murmuring in the background, man stubbornly pushed ahead, harnessing the Earth's resources, developing technological superiority and building civilization.

Now we stand on the threshold of yet another era, the Hydrogen Age, and there are those who fear we cannot make the transition. "Extinction" is again on many tongues as some physical and social scientiest predict the crumbling of society beneath the weight of overpopulation, starvation and depletion of finite natural resources. That is a grim forecast with a very important flaw in it. It fails to give "... full credit to one key element, the technical ingenuity of this and succeeding generations and the exponential growth of that ingenuity." Such studies neglect to take into account the resourcefulness of man.

As the chairman and chief executive of Rockwell International, one of our nation's leading aerospace and industrial manufacturing concerns, has said: "We have the technical capability to achieve ... our environmental goals ... Never before have we had access to so much knowledtge about this planet we live on. Never before have we been better equipped with the technological tools for survival. Not only can we avoid disaster, but with the proper intermesh of sociological and technological factors and the will of the world to survive, we can turn disaster into triumph and prosper with this planet for a millennium to come."

That is a challenge we cannot refuse -- for such a vision offers a concerte avenue to a future which holds the promise of vastly improving the earthly experience of all mankind.

Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Jack Anderson

How Jacqueline Differs from Other Great Ladies
By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON--Our columns about the private world of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis produced a Vesuvius of angry denials and denunciations.

Individual answers to all the letters are impossible, so we will attempt an omnibus reply. We will offer, too, a few details that were crowded out of the original series.

An enormous investment of national interest, respect, affection and prestige was once made in Jacqueline Kennedy. She was a factor in the imagery surrounding John F. Kennedy's rise to the presidency and in the glittering aura cast by his administration.

As First Lady, she occupied the position of a national exemplar. There is, therefore, a continuing interest in her that does not cease at a convenient moment, an interest in the key events of her life, in how she conducts herself.

There is an historical interest, too, in what kind of person she was at the time when she was a symbol of America, the cynosure of all eyes. Historians are still probing and analyzing the behavior of Mary Todd Lincoln and Eleanor Roosevelt before, during and after their White House years. So it must continue to be with Jacqueline Kennedy.

For still other reasons she is a particular lightning rod for public attention. Her choice of lifestyle, which by ordinary standards is exotic, attracts the spotlight.

The Jacqueline Kennedy who in the years of Camelot and the days of Dallas won a place in the nation's heart and imagination left the White House with a prestige that could have been a tremendous force for good.

When fate bestows a staggering opportunity to serve mankind, it also inflicts a responsibility that supersedes private inclinations. Eleanor Roosevelt took up that burden; Coretta King has taken it up. Jacqueline Kennedy has shirked it, pursuing instead luxury, languor, gowns, jewels and the wheedling of unearned wealth.

Her reign as queen of the jet set has been chronicled largely by the gossip writers who report the bon mots, the pouts and the whims of the social butterflies. Our columns, on the contrary, were not based at all upon gossip dropped at posh parties.

The late Aristotle Onassis himself piqued our interest by inviting us to his favorite Manhattan restaurant last December for a private talk. It turned out to be his last conversation with a newsman.

He had little to say about his famous wife except for a mild complaint about her extravagance and her horsy friends. But we learned afterwards that he had indicated to his closest associates that we could be trusted. This led some of them to confide in us after his death.

We were also shown private papers, letters and other documents. We spent three weeks pursuing every lead and checking out every detail. For Jackie's side of the story, we spoke to several of her friends, and we offered to go over every allegation with her personally.

We reported thereafter that the huge Onassis estate will be controlled by daughter Christina, not wife Jacqueline, and that the marriage had been preceded by a written contract providing a cash settlement on Jacqueline of at least $3 million in tax-free bonds.

She also received a spending allowance, which began at $30,000 a month but was cut to $20,000 by Onassis in protest over her spending habits. She had other perquisites such as charge privileges in the famous shopping emporiums of the world.

We reported further that Jacqueline systematically converted gowns, gifts and other indulgences of Onassis into cash by selling them off at fashionable New York City resale houses.

As signs accumulated that the largesse was ending, Jackie reacted by intensifying her efforts. During her husband's final illness, she went on a shopping spree at Bloomingdale's.

A close friend of the Onassises told us: "She thought it might be her last fling. She is so avaricious, so greedy." But her secretary, Nancy Tuckerman, claimed Jackie had to buy many items for her new home in New Jersey. "Life must go on," said Ms. Tuckerman.

Not long after the Onassis funeral, the indispensable Ms. Tuckerman was dispatched to the New York headquarters to inquire about the continuation of the allowance. Christina apparently is letting it continue.

If Jackie squandered her late husband's money, she was always tight with her own. She had to pay out of her own budget, for example, to repaint her Fifth Avenue apartment. Once, she called in a representative of the Union Square Painting Company and asked for estimates. When she found it would cost $3,000 for the paint work, she cancelled the project rather than spend the money.

She was lavish, however, with the money not only of her husband but of her friends.

During a fabulous few days in Tehran as guest of Iran's top oilman, Dr. Rexa Fallah, Jacqueline spent most of her time in the shops buying up expensive jewelry, antiques, artcraft, sheepskin boots and jackets, silk ties, lamps and other loot.

We have evidence that she charged everything to her host. Then afterwards, she announced that she was leaving a $700 check to be distributed among the servants. But no check was ever found.

Thus has Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, who had so much potential for good, chosen instead a life of uselessnes. Each year she consumes enough of the world's luxuries to provide necessities for hundreds of families.

Cities As Hostages..
First Inside Story of Nuclear Bomb Truck Transport Over U. S. Highways

WASHINGTON - Can a small band of terrorists rip off an Army, Navy, Air Force or Energy Research and Development Administration trailer- truck transporting nuclear weapons and special fissionable bomb-making nuclear material..

Can a major city be held as hostage by atomic blackmailers or as revolutionary strategy by such a band which need only hijack a nuclear weapons over-the-road transport truck..

Answer: Yes. Who says so.. Some of the nation's top scientists and ERDA officials. And the General Accounting Office which just the other day charged the Army and Navy with laxity in conveying such thermonuclear explosives.

And there is Carl Glines, investigative managing editor of a respected trade magazine, the Commercial Car Journal, which knows more about trucking than Hannibal knew about elephants.

When I learned that Glines had written an inside piece on nuclear weapon transport for his June edition -- and a mighty hairy-scary one at that – I talked with him. This is one of the most startling detailings of the movement of atomic explosives ever written. I asked him about his sources. They're solid. So is he.

"In talking with my source... I came away with the very strong feeling that the nuclear energy community, specially ERDA, which replaced AEC, is really scared ... that a terrorist group will seize a load of this freight," says Glines. "Even when talking with my source again he repeated those fears. There is no question there are some very worried people at ERDA and in other nuclear installations regarding the security of this material. It is all very scary."

In his report Glines discloses that ERDA officials confirmed for the first time it has a fleet of 10 tractor- trailers which move the nuclear warheads. These are headquartered in Albuquerque, N. M., and Amarillo, Tex. Not far from Los Alamos and the Sandia Air Base.

These science-fiction type vans criss-cross the nation laden with the nuclear bombs. Last year they rolled over a million miles of U. S. highways costing ERDA (old AEC) some $40 million to protect the shipments. These trailers- trucks were manufactued secretly by the Marmon Co. of Dallas under ERDA "Safe-Secure" designs.

These are 40-foot, all steel trailers. Empty they weigh 37,500 lbs. These trailers-trucks, daily used to carry "the most dangerous and destructive material and weapons known to mankind," carry special armored plating. They have bullet-proof window glass designed to protect the two armed drivers.

The air-conditioned cabs pulling the trailers are equipped with a "powerful and highly sensitive communications system." There is a back-up unit. It links each tractor- trailer with an ERDA- engineered high-frequency communications system operating nationwide.

The heart of this ERDA communications network is a fleet of five "Winnebago campers" jam-packed with sensitive still- classified communications and electronic tracking equipment.

In addition to this dual system each tractor is equipped with a VHF radio and a radio telephone, says Glines. These link the drivers with a government escort -- the "chase car." This vehicle always follows each nuclear bomb-carrying unit.

Further, the Safe-Secure trailers have built in equipment which would immobilize them if halted or hijacked. This should seal it from any looters, bandits, garden variety blackmailers or the type of terrorist bands now apparently operating freely across Europe.

As for the environmentalists, they should know that the trailers have special gear to resist fires, lightning or electromagnetic radiation.

And they have other equipment to withstand "abnormal environments of explosion, collision and tornadoes," according to ERDA officials.

Thus ERDA appears to have the best protective system for moving modern bombs – which always have been transported over our roads through our nation's history. But these bombs are different. So are their ingredients. Such as plutonium, which the specialists say can make quite a lethal tremor with even an ounce and a half in the wrong hands.

The weakness in atomic bomb shipments, according to the many authorities, is in the Army and Navy systems. They ship in commercial trucks. One shipment actually has gone unguarded, driven by unarmed truckers. ERDA drivers and mechanics have Q and L clearances. Not all the others have, it is reported.

And the Army has no aerial (helicopter) surveillance. And the General Accounting Office says there must be immediate protection. And the specialists and scientists say move swiftly or one of our cities may yet be held for ransom. Like sex these days, it's all out in the open. Let's report it. Let's talk about it. The atomic bomb transport system has been a forbidden discussion piece. If we want one nation indivisible in one piece let's protect these shipments.

SHS music builds pride

By SANDY HEI
AND JAN TEAGUE
Teen Correspondents

Music is an important part of the lives of many students at Sikeston High School. The concert choirs, bands and orchestra allow many students to express themselves musically.

In addition, the music department presents to the public a student who may never be recognized in anything else.

Public concerts build price in the musicians and their parents. A feeling of accomplishment is gained.

Recently at Sikeston High School, a festival for choirs was held. In this way music gave area boys and girls the opportunity to mix and meet new friends.

The night of the festival a concert was held where each choir sang numbers for the others. Pride for one's own chorus could be felt.

Everyone put all they had into making their music and presentation excellent. Perhaps the best part of the entire program was the final song sung by the choirs of Sikeston. "Peace Like A River" is a lively gospel number with drum accompaniment.

Members of the choirs were so moved by the music they began hand-clapping and singing. The room seemed a joyous place of peace and well-being. Each person seemed to feel a kind of love for his brother.

Along with the wonderful experiences music can offer, students are given the chance to excel. Solos in voice or instrument are often recognized and may lead to a career or college major.

In band and orchestra a student gains satisfaction in playing an instrument in being a small part of one glorious sound.

Many students push themselves to better their musical skills with an instrument. With instrument and with chorus, there is competition from other schools.

Sikeston High School has a music department that prepares student for a music career. While at school, many students realize how much help a professionally excellent music department can be.

ADVANCE — Brenda Joyce Rainey recently won the Missouri Farmers Association, Inc., college scholarship. The announcement will be made at commencement exercises May 22nd.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Ms. William Theodore Rainey. Miss Rainey plans to attend the University of Missouri-Columbia and expects to study veterinary medicine.

The $250 scholarship was donated by the MFA Foundation and the Advance MFA Exchange. It isone of 172 college scholarships being presented to Missouri high school graduates this year by the Missouri Farmers Association and affiliated agencies.

New fabrics:

Facts on Rayon

By JEWEL GRADY

Rayon presented as "artificial silk" to the world in 1892 was truly' a scientific breakthrough for an expanding industrial civilization. It was first produced in the United States in 1910.

Rayon fibers are manmade from cellulose obtained from spruce wood, other soft wood and cotton linters.

Th fiber has had its ups and downs. It had its beginning in the apparel world as knitted fabric used for men and boys' stockings and as underwear and hosiery for women.

During World War I fiber shortage and demands for artificial silk caused the cost of rayon to rise to an all-time high of $7.75 per fiber pound.

Since that time technological advances, refinements in chemical and mechanical controls and versatility have contributed to the mushrooming market for rayon.

Some of the properties and characteristics of regular rayon of importance to consumers are:

1. Fabrics wrinkle badly unless finished for crease resistance and wrinkle recovery.

2. Comfortable for summer wear. Found in a variety of bright colors.

3. Fabrics stretch or shrink easily. On a humid day fabrics tend to stretch; while on a very dry day they tend to shrink. Draperies with rayon warp yarns usually are not satisfactory. It exhibits progressive shrinkage and rayon cannot be sanforized.

4. Most soaps and detergents can be used on rayon without harm to the fiber. Perspiration weakens the fiber.

5. The fiber is degraded by use of concentrated chlorine bleaches at high temperature. Chlorine bleach must be completely removed by thorough rinsing before ironing.

6. Rayon can be ironed at fairly high temperature (above cotton setting).

7. Rayon is weaker when wet than dry. Careful handling is required if fabric is wet. It should not be wrung or twisted.

8. The fiber ignites quickly and burns freely.

9. Rayon is relatively low in cost. It can be made to look like other fabrics.

World War II brought about important changes in the regular rayon fiber. In 1947 a permanently crimped rayon staple was developed. This made a fabric which was bulkier, crisper and warmer. It also brought about some changes in the characteristics and properties of the fibver.

These modified fibers had better shrinkage control. A resin finish provided wrinkle resistance yet did not weaken the fabric. The hand and luster of these fibers were like that of cotton and spun silk.

Continued research has brought a better rayon product to the consumer. A tremendous potential for the future of rayon lies ahead in its increasing consumption for medical-surgical products and other types of disposables.

Meat supply drops

Associated Press Writer

The higher livestock prices that helped cause the latest boost in the Wholesale Price Index are likely to mean more expensive hot dogs, hamburgers and steaks for summer barbecues. But no one really knows whether the increase will continue, how much of it will show up at the supermarket or what the consumer will do.

On March 5, a 600-pound, choice steer carcass was selling for $56.75 per 100 pounds. On May 6, the same carcass brought $79.50, a 40 per cent increase.

Agriculture Department figures showed that prices paid to farmers increased 4 per cent from March 15 to April 15 after five straight months of decline.

The Labor Department said Thursday that this increase helped push up the Wholesale Price Index by 1.5 per cent in April. It was the first boost since November.

Why the sharp rise in cattle prices? What's going to happen at the supermarket?

The rise in cattle prices is due mainly to a decline in the over-all meat supply.

"Prices are going up primarily because of the low number of cattle available for slaughter now," said a Department of Agriculture economist in Des Moines, Iowa.

"The sitution has been so unfavorable for feeders (feedlot operators who fatten livestock on grain) that some have just discontinued their feed operations. Feed costs are high ... and prices they get for meat are low."

The American Meat Institute reported that although beef production so far this year is 5 per cent ahead of 1974, decreases in pork and poultry production mean that 2 per cent less meat of all kinds has been produced in 1975 than a year earlier.

Howard Madsen, an institute economist, also said that some cattlemen had been holding back their animals, waiting for the implementation of new beef grading standards. Those standards had been scheduled to take effect April 14, but were delayed by an injunction.

Madsen said that the arrival of spring means farmers can put their cattle out to pasture and wait for the price to go up instead of sending them to market.

The other part of the price picture is demand. Consumers have shown resistance to high meat prices, particularly since the boycott of 1973. Surveys show many Americans say they are trying to eat less meat to save money. If people won't buy, the price may come down.

That already has happened in the live cattle market where prices declined Wednesday because of resistance from the packers who were afraid they couldn't increase their prices any more and therefore didn't want to pay more for the steers they slaughter.

Area couple celebrates fifty years of marriage

CHAFFEE — Mr. and Mrs. Levi Miller recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in their home where the couple resided their entire married life. Among guests attending the anniversary celebration were the couple's children and families, Mr. an Mrs. William H. Miller of St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scheeter and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Halter and several of the couple's grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, the former Nettie Schwepker of Cape Girardeau, were united in marriage April 15, 1925, at St. Mary's Cathedral in Cape Girardeau. Miller was a city and rural letter carrier in Chaffee for 37 years and retired in November 1956.

Household hints

For a refreshing finale for a summer barbecue, serve a canned cling peach half filled with a scoop of lemon sherbet, a spoonful of creme de menthe or a mint sprig.

Impress your guests with this elegant peach dessert that takes only minutes to prepare. Drain a 29-ounce can of cling peach slices, reserving ¼ cup syrup. Place peaches in china or silver bowl. Sprinkle with juice of half a lemon and one teaspoon grated lemon peel. Combine ¼ cup reserved peach syrup, one cup sour cream and two tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur. Fold sour cream mixture into peach slices and garnish with grated lemon peel. Chill at least two hours before serving. Makes 6-8 servings.

SHS music builds pride

By SANDY HEI
AND JAN TEAGUE
Teen Correspondents

Music is an important part of the lives of many students at Sikeston High School. The concert choirs, bands and orchestra allow many students to express themselves musically.

In addition, the music department presents to the public a student who may never be recognized in anything else.

Public concerts build price in the musicians and their parents. A feeling of accomplishment is gained.

Recently at Sikeston High School, a festival for choirs was held. In this way music gave area boys and girls the opportunity to mix and meet new friends.

The night of the festival a concert was held where each choir sang numbers for the others. Pride for one's own chorus could be felt.

Everyone put all they had into making their music and presentation excellent. Perhaps the best part of the entire program was the final song sung by the choirs of Sikeston. "Peace Like A River" is a lively gospel number with drum accompaniment.

Members of the choirs were so moved by the music they began hand-clapping and singing. The room seemed a joyous place of peace and well-being. Each person seemed to feel a kind of love for his brother.

Along with the wonderful experiences music can offer, students are given the chance to excel. Solos in voice or instrument are often recognized and may lead to a career or college major.

In band and orchestra a student gains satisfaction in playing an instrument in being a small part of one glorious sound.

Many students push themselves to better their musical skills with an instrument. With instrument and with chorus, there is competition from other schools.

Sikeston High School has a music department that prepares student for a music career. While at school, many students realize how much help a professionally excellent music department can be.

Brenda Rainey

ADVANCE — Brenda Joyce Rainey recently won the Missouri Farmers Association, Inc., college scholarship. The announcement will be made at commencement exercises May 22nd.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Ms. William Theodore Rainey. Miss Rainey plans to attend the University of Missouri-Columbia and expects to study veterinary medicine.

The $250 scholarship was donated by the MFA Foundation and the Advance MFA Exchange. It isone of 172 college scholarships being presented to Missouri high school graduates this year by the Missouri Farmers Association and affiliated agencies.

New fabrics:

Facts on Rayon

By JEWEL GRADY

Rayon presented as "artificial silk" to the world in 1892 was truly a scientific breakthrough for an expanding industrial civilization. It was first produced in the United States in 1910.

Rayon fibers are manmade from cellulose obtained from spruce wood, other soft wood and cotton linters.

Th fiber has had its ups and downs. It had its beginning in the apparel world as knitted fabric used for men and boys' stockings and as underwear and hosiery for women.

During World War I fiber shortage and demands for artificial silk caused the cost of rayon to rise to an all-time high of $7.75 per fiber pound.

Since that time technological advances, refinements in chemical and mechanical controls and versatility have contributed to the mushrooming market for rayon.

Some of the properties and characteristics of regular rayon of importance to consumers are:

1. Fabrics wrinkle badly unless finished for crease resistance and wrinkle recovery.

2. Comfortable for summer wear. Found in a variety of bright colors.

3. Fabrics stretch or shrink easily. On a humid day fabrics tend to stretch; while on a very dry day they tend to shrink. Draperies with rayon warp yarns usually are not satisfactory. It exhibits progressive shrinkage and rayon cannot be sanforized.

4. Most soaps and detergents can be used on rayon without harm to the fiber. Perspiration weakens the fiber.

5. The fiber is degraded by use of concentrated chlorine bleaches at high temperature. Chlorine bleach must be completely removed by thorough rinsing before ironing.

6. Rayon can be ironed at fairly high temperature (above cotton setting).

7. Rayon is weaker when wet than dry. Careful handling is required if fabric is wet. It should not be wrung or twisted.

8. The fiber ignites quickly and burns freely.

9. Rayon is relatively low in cost. It can be made to look like other fabrics.

World War II brought about important changes in the regular rayon fiber. In 1947 a permanently crimped rayon staple was developed. This made a fabric which was bulkier, crisper and warmer. It also brought about some changes in the characteristics and properties of the fibver.

These modified fibers had better shrinkage control. A resin finish provided wrinkle resistance yet did not weaken the fabric. The hand and luster of these fibers were like that of cotton and spun silk.

Continued research has brought a better rayon product to the consumer. A tremendous potential for the future of rayon lies ahead in its increasing consumption for medical-surgical products and other types of disposables.

We asked YOU... about Mother's Day

To Mrs. Jean Pobst, 42, of Route One, Mother's Day is special because "it is a day to honor mothers to let them know we love them and give them a day of rest." To celebrate, she and her family will visit Mrs. Pobst's mother "in the hills" near Zalma for a big dinner. Motherhood is still important because "raising a family is a big job in itself. Sometimes we fail, sometimes we do a good job. Everyone does not want a career." She is the mother of Patty, 22, Chuck, 19, and has one grandchild.

Jean Pobst

Mrs. Annie Williams, 72, 111 Westgate Drive, says a mother "is the founder of the world. If it were not for mothers, I would take pity on the world. Some fathers are not interested in making a home. They want to carouse and drink. Being a mother is special because it is God's gift to mothers to bring children into the world. Sometimes I see kids deprived of a mother's love. It's just love. That's what I appreciate about being a mother." She is the mother of four adopted children, Justin, 49, Willie B., 47, Minnie, 52, Ruth, 35 and a daughter, Pearl, 54, plus seven grandchildren. Many of her children will make dinner at her home and attend church with her on Mother's Day.

Annie Williams

Pat Matthews III, 24, of 111 Linda Drive, became a mother Wednesday at 1:38 p.m., to Edward C. IV Matthews. Mrs. Matthews' sudden entrance into motherhood was "just great." I was on cloud nine once I saw him and knew he was fine. As for Mother's Day, she forgot about it. But on second thought, she will be home to "relax and enjoy the new baby. It will be the first day his father will hold him and everyboddy else may. I never appreciated mothers and babies until I had one. Now I know what it's all about. Yours is special and so is everyone else's."

Pat Matthews

Debbie Carter, 22, of 209 W. Center St., says being a mother to Leslie, 2, is "joy because someone depends on me totally to be there at all times to feed and dress them. If something is wrong with me, she is the first one to console me. Mother's Day is a worthy holiday because it teaches children respect for a mother and on that day to do things for her without griping and complaining. Deep down inside every woman wants to be a mother but many cannot stay at home for financial reasons. Mother's Day reminds me of giving birth and the affection my husband and daughter is rewarding. It also reminds me of my love for my mother." Mrs. Carter will attend church, eat dinner at her grandmother's and rest on Mother's Day.

Banker catches the heat

An ad for a bank just promised me a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange) if I deposited $500.

This is not the first time they've tried to woo me into parting with my money. A few months ago, it was a popcorn popper for a new $1,000 savings account and a thermal blanket with dual controls for a $10,000 certificate.

Frankly, I'm delighted to see that banks have finally become realistic about the value of money.

The other day my husband and I went into the bank to float a loan for a new car.

The banker was pleased. "Fine," he said,. "Now what do you have as collateral?"

We could hardly contain our excitement as we exchanged glances. "Mr. Farquardt, for the use of your $1,000 for one year...no fair taking it back before then ..we are going to give you either a set of matching Cannon bath towels or a genuine cowhide billfold with a picture of Debra Paget, suitable for framing."

"You're kidding," he said.

"I told you he'd get chocked up," I said nudging my husband. "Tell him the rest."

"If you let us have the money for two years without touching it, we'll throw in a Bonsai tree guaranteed to grow 1-½ inches a year."

"Just a minute," said Mr. Farquart. "The bank is not a discount house. It's a lending agency."

"Then what are all those cookbooks and dishes doing in the lobby?"

"That's just an incentive for people to deposit money."

"Wonderful, and we are offereing you the same opportunity to lend it."

"I'm afraid that's quite impossible," he explained. "You have no car?"

"That's why we are borrowing the money."

"Your house?"

"You already own it. Look, Mr. Farquardt, this is our last offer. For the loan of $1,000 we will give you a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange)."

"What would I do with it?"

"The way we figure it," we said, "you're the only one in town with a pot to cook in."

First Women's Bank formed

NEW YORK (AP) — After three years of trying to raise capital and meet state requirements, the First Women's Bank says it will be certified soon and will begin full operation in the fall.

The bank bills itself as the first commercial bank to be nondiscriminatory in its hiring, promotion and credit policies and first to place special emphasis on meeting the financial needs of women.

"Some people thought we'd never get off the ground. But the bank has generated so much enthusiasm people are already sending in deposits. It was definitely an idea whose time has come," said Madeline McWhinney, the bank's president.

Bank officers say it will be a full service bank that will make special efforts to crate banking career opportunitie for women. They also say they plan to advance credit and loans to women who are having trouble getting financial help from the larger established banks.

Although Congress has passed the Equal Credit Opportunity Act which bans sex discrimination in credit, Miss McWhinney says that many banks don't want to bother with women as customes and consider them poor risks.

It's an attitude that takes a long time to change," said Miss McWhinney. "Most banks have failed to catch up with the fact that women are good cutomers, that they have the jobs and the money to invest. Opening our bank is a positive step in letting women know that their needs will be met."

Other women's banks are in the works in Greenwich, Conn.; Wasington, D. C.; Minneapolis; Seattle' Los Angeles; San Diego; Portland, Ore.; and Portland, Maine.

The First Women's Bank will be open to men and women. There are five men on the board of directors along with feminist Betty Friedan, designer Pauline Trigere and Advertising executive Jane Trahey.

Miss McWhinney says that an important part of the bank's business will be counselling and reference. She says she hopes to have a library of financial and consumer information and eventually hold seminars on money management an investment.

Miss McWhinney, who is married but prefers to use her maiden name for business, came to the Women's Bank after 30 years with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York where she was its highest ranking female officer.

She said that the new bank has 7,000 shareholders who have bought stock at $15 a share to help raise the $3 million necessary for capitalization. Th first effort to raise $4 million failed because of the difficult economic times, not from lack of enthusiasm, he said.

The bank's temporary, cardboard box cluttered offices are on East 57th Street in a windowless basement. The bank plans to move into permanent, above-ground offices eventually.

Clerk causes sensation in 1890

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)-It was 30 years before women could vote, so it was the men of Jasper County in southwest Missouri who put Annie Baxter in as county clerk in 1890 and established the claim that she was the first woman ever elected to public office in the country.

It lasted only four years, since the Republicans swept all the county offices in the next election; but young Annie Baxter was a sensation in her time.

Her election withstood a legal attack which was taken to the Missouri Supreme Court. The governor named her an honorary colonel. And a political rival was moved to say:

"When Annie Baxter was county clerk, she pretty well ran this county."

A later day editorialist said if this was true Annie did a good job. The building of Jasper County's picturesque courthouse was started in her term of office. An auxiliary courthouse was established in Joplin, the county's largest city. And Joplin still has its Annie Baxter Avenue.

Annie apparently was 11 or 12 years old when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. White, moved to Carthage in 1876 from Pennsylvania. Her father had a wood working shop and furniture factory.

When she graduated from high school six years later, the Carthage Banner reported:

"Miss White is familiarly known in the city. Her circle of acquaintances is broad. She took her place in front of the audience with ease and showed little signs of embarrassment."

The Banner also reported her graduation essay showed "hard study and thoughts well selected and formed. . .opening the door of her mind, permitting the audience to get a view of the talents within."

Annie put her talents to work immediately at the courthouse, and in the eight years before she became the Democratic nominee for county clerk she picked up experience as a deputy in that office and in the recorder's and collector's offices.

She also married Charles W. Baxter, head clerk in one of the largest stores on the courthouse square.

During her term as county clerk, the Banner reported:

"Mrs. Baxter's administration of her office has been without a parallel. In the state department at Jefferson City, her official reports are exhibited as models. State officers take delight in commending her as the best county clerk in the state."

After she lost the office in 1894, the Baxters moved to Jefferson City and Annie got a state job. For eight years she was registrar of lands for the secretary of state and was credited with a complete reorganization of the agency's staff and techniques.

She later was secretary of Dean James T. Quarrels of the school of fine arts at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

What proabably was her last visit to Carthage was in May of 1936, when she was a delegate to the Democratic State Convention in Joplin. She died at Jefferson City on June 28, 1944.

A few months after she lost the clerk's office, a special edition of the Press-"Edited by the Women of Carthage"- cited Annie Baxter as proof that "a woman can fill a place of trust and honor as well as his majesty-maan."

Another press editorial about the time of her visit in 1936 called her "the woman who led the way for the political freedom we enjoy today."

Ann sides with Baptists

Dear Ann Landers: Our problem is one that has been causing a lot of anxiety in our family. We need an outside opinion from someone who is not a Baptist. You have been selected.

Our son is planning to be married on August 9. The trouble is over the reception. His financee's parents are very strict Baptists. They do not drink any kind of liquor. Even spiked punch is out. The wedding will be held in the church and the reception which follows will take place in the church parlor.

How can we make him see how selfish his attitude is.. Our friends and family will have a very dull evening unless my husband and I entertain them in the manner to which they are accustomed.

Will you please come to the rescue, Ann.. --Want To Do It Right.

Dear Want To: Sorry, you rattled the wrong cage. You are dead wrong.

The parents of the bride are putting on the wedding and reception. You and your relatives and friends should go along with whatever they have planned. If you can't get through the night without booze. then get plastered by yourself, after you get home.

Should you care to have a reception when the couple returns from their honeymoon, it would be perfectly proper to do so. You could then serve kerosene and battery acid if you wanted to since it would be your party. But you would, I hope, have non-alcoholic beverages on hand for the bride's side -- if they wish to attend.

Dear Ann Landers: We moved into a new apartment a few weeks ago. Last night the woman across the hall gave a "housewarming" party for us which we thought was most generous considering that these days most people don't want to have anything to do with their neighbors. There were about 28 people present. Each guest brought something for the 8 o'clock supper. The party was, of course, in our apartment.

All our furniture is new. Even though we are not completely furnished, what we have is of good quality. About 7:30 , when I was inthe kitchen making coffee, I heard a crash. I rushed to the living room and saw two men helping a woman up from the floor. She was not injured, thank the Lord, but our lovely antique English chair was in splinters. Why on earth would a person who weighs at least 250 pounds select THAT chair to sit on..

Someone made a feeble joke about suing us, but not one word wasmentioned about replacing the chair. Do you feel the woman who broke it is responsible.. Your opinion is needed. -- Goodbye George III.

Dear George: Forget it. You're lucky the woman didn't break her back. People assume that chairs are to sit on. Anything as fragile as your "lovely antique" should be put in a bedroom or a closet when you entertain.

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs -- or considering it.. Are all drugs bad.. What about pot -- in moderation.. Ann Landers's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs," separates the facts from the fiction. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Baked or broiled canned cling peach halves are a delicious accompaniment to main courses. Sprinkle the well-drained peaches with your favorite spice and little brown sugar before heating. Serve with roast pork or poultry. When less sweetness is desired, with fish for instance, sprinkle halves with herbs and a dash of vinegar or lemon.

We asked YOU... about Mother's Day

To Mrs. Jean Pobst, 42, of Route One, Mother's Day is special because "it is a day to honor mothers to let them know we love them and give them a day of rest." To celebrate, she and her family will visit Mrs. Pobst's mother "in the hills" near Zalma for a big dinner. Motherhood is still important because "raising a family is a big job in itself. Sometimes we fail, sometimes we do a good job. Everyone does not want a career." She is the mother of Patty, 22, Chuck, 19, and has one grandchild.

Jean Pobst

Mrs. Annie Williams, 72, 111 Westgate Drive, says a mother "is the founder of the world. If it were not for mothers, I would take pity on the world. Some fathers are not interested in making a home. They want to carouse and drink. Being a mother is special because it is God's gift to mothers to bring children into the world. Sometimes I see kids deprived of a mother's love. It's just love. That's what I appreciate about being a mother." She is the mother of four adopted children, Justin, 49, Willie B., 47, Minnie, 52, Ruth, 35 and a daughter, Pearl, 54, plus seven grandchildren. Many of her children will make dinner at her home and attend church with her on Mother's Day.

Annie Williams

Pat Matthews III, 24, of 111 Linda Drive, became a mother Wednesday at 1:38 p.m., to Edward C. IV Matthews. Mrs. Matthews' sudden entrance into motherhood was "just great." I was on cloud nine once I saw him and knew he was fine. As for Mother's Day, she forgot about it. But on second thought, she will be home to "relax and enjoy the new baby. It will be the first day his father will hold him and everyboddy else may. I never appreciated mothers and babies until I had one. Now I know what it's all about. Yours is special and so is everyone else's."

Pat Matthews

Debbie Carter, 22, of 209 W. Center St., says being a mother to Leslie, 2, is "joy because someone depends on me totally to be there at all times to feed and dress them. If something is wrong with me, she is the first one to console me. Mother's Day is a worthy holiday because it teaches children respect for a mother and on that day to do things for her without griping and complaining. Deep down inside every woman wants to be a mother but many cannot stay at home for financial reasons. Mother's Day reminds me of giving birth and the affection my husband and daughter is rewarding. It also reminds me of my love for my mother." Mrs. Carter will attend church, eat dinner at her grandmother's and rest on Mother's Day.

Banker catches the heat

An ad for a bank just promised me a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange))if I deposited $500.

This is not the first time they've tried to woo me into parting with my money. A few months ago, it was a popcorn popper for a new $1,000 savings account and a thermal blanket with dual controls for a $10,000 certificate.

Frankly, I'm delighted to see that banks have finally become realistic about the value of money.

The other day my husband and I went into the bank to float a loan for a new car.

The banker was pleased. "Fine," he said,. "Now what do you have as collateral?"

We could hardly contain our excitement as we exchanged glances. "Mr. Farquardt, for the use of your $1,000 for one year...no fair taking it back before then ..we are going to give you either a set of matching Cannon bath towels or a genuine cowhide billfold with a picture of Debra Paget, suitable for framing."

"You're kidding," he said.

"I told you he'd get chocked up," I said nudging my husband. "Tell him the rest."

"If you let us have the money for two years without touching it, we'll throw in a Bonsai tree guaranteed to grow 1-½ inches a year."

"Just a minute," said Mr. Farquart. "The bank is not a discount house. It's a lending agency."

"Then what are all those cookbooks and dishes doing in the lobby?"

"That's just an incentive for people to deposit money."

"Wonderful, and we are offereing you the same opportunity to lend it."

"I'm afraid that's quite impossible," he explained. "You have no car?"

"That's why we are borrowing the money."

"Your house?"

"You already own it. Look, Mr. Farquardt, this is our last offer. For the loan of $1,000 we will give you a six-piece potholder set (in green or orange)."

"What would I do with it?"

"The way we figure it," we said, "you're the only one in town with a pot to cook in."

First Women's Bank formed

NEW YORK (AP) — After three years of trying to raise capital and meet state requirements, the First Women's Bank says it will be certified soon and will begin full operation in the fall.

The bank bills itself as the first commercial bank to be nondiscriminatory in its hiring, promotion and credit policies and first to place special emphasis on meeting the financial needs of women.

"Some people thought we'd never get off the ground. But the bank has generated so much enthusiasm people are already sending in deposits. It was definitely an idea whose time has come," said Madeline McWhinney, the bank's president.

Bank officers say it will be a full service bank that will make special efforts to crate banking career opportunitie for women. They also say they plan to advance credit and loans to women who are having trouble getting financial help from the larger established banks.

Although Congress has passed the Equal Credit Opportunity Act which bans sex discrimination in credit, Miss McWhinney says that many banks don't want to bother with women as customes and consider them poor risks.

It's an attitude that takes a long time to change," said Miss McWhinney. "Most banks have failed to catch up with the fact that women are good cutomers, that they have the jobs and the money to invest. Opening our bank is a positive step in letting women know that their needs will be met."

Other women's banks are in the works in Greenwich, Conn.; Wasington, D. C.; Minneapolis; Seattle' Los Angeles; San Diego; Portland, Ore.; and Portland, Maine.

The First Women's Bank will be open to men and women. There are five men on the board of directors along with feminist Betty Friedan, designer Pauline Trigere and Advertising executive Jane Trahey.

Miss McWhinney says that an important part of the bank's business will be counselling and reference. She says she hopes to have a library of financial and consumer information and eventually hold seminars on money management an investment.

Miss McWhinney, who is married but prefers to use her maiden name for business, came to the Women's Bank after 30 years with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York where she was its highest ranking female officer.

She said that the new bank has 7,000 shareholders who have bought stock at $15 a share to help raise the $3 million necessary for capitalization. Th first effort to raise $4 million failed because of the difficult economic times, not from lack of enthusiasm, he said.

The bank's temporary, cardboard box cluttered offices are on East 57th Street in a windowless basement. The bank plans to move into permanent, above-ground offices eventually.

Ann Landers

Ann sides with Baptists

Dear Ann Landers: Our problem is one that has been causing a lot of anxiety in our family. We need an outside opinion from someone who is not a Baptist. You have been selected.

Clerk causes sensation in 1890

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP)-It was 30 years before women could vote, so it was the men of Jasper County in southwest Missouri who put Annie Baxter in as county clerk in 1890 and established the claim that she was the first woman ever elected to public office in the country.

It lasted only four years, since the Republicans swept all the county offices in the next election; but young Annie Baxter was a sensation in her time.

Her election withstood a legal attack which was taken to the Missouri Supreme Court. The governor named her an honorary colonel. And a political rival was moved to say:

"When Annie Baxter was county clerk, she pretty well ran this county."

A later day editorialist said if this was true Annie did a good job. The building of Jasper County's picturesque courthouse was started in her term of office. An auxiliary courthouse was established in Joplin, the county's largest city. And Joplin still has its Annie Baxter Avenue.

Annie apparently was 11 or 12 years old when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. White, moved to Carthage in 1876 from Pennsylvania. Her father had a wood working shop and furniture factory.

When she graduated from high school six years later, the Carthage Banner reported:

"Miss White is familiarly known in the city. Her circle of acquaintances is broad. She took her place in front of the audience with ease and showed little signs of embarrassment."

The Banner also reported her graduation essay showed "hard study and thoughts well selected and formed. . .opening the door of her mind, permitting the audience to get a view of the talents within."

Annie put her talents to work immediately at the courthouse, and in the eight years before she became the Democratic nominee for county clerk she picked up experience as a deputy in that office and in the recorder's and collector's offices.

She also married Charles W. Baxter, head clerk in one of the largest stores on the courthouse square.

During her term as county clerk, the Banner reported:

"Mrs. Baxter's administration of her office has been without a parallel. In the state department at Jefferson City, her official reports are exhibited as models. State officers take delight in commending her as the best county clerk in the state."

After she lost the office in 1894, the Baxters moved to Jefferson City and Annie got a state job. For eight years she was registrar of lands for the secretary of state and was credited with a complete reorganization of the agency's staff and techniques.

She later was secretary of Dean James T. Quarrels of the school of fine arts at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

What proabably was her last visit to Carthage was in May of 1936, when she was a delegate to the Democratic State Convention in Joplin. She died at Jefferson City on June 28, 1944.

A few months after she lost the clerk's office, a special edition of the Press-"Edited by the Women of Carthage"- cited Annie Baxter as proof that "a woman can fill a place of trust and honor as well as his majesty-maan."

Another press editorial about the time of her visit in 1936 called her "the woman who led the way for the political freedom we enjoy today."

Baked or broiled canned cling peach halves are a delicious accompaniment to main courses. Sprinkle the well-drained peaches with your favorite spice and little brown sugar before heating. Serve with roast pork or poultry. When less sweetness is desired, with fish for instance, sprinkle halves with herbs and a dash of vinegar or lemon.

The seniors being honored are Sondra Matthews, Cherrie Mitchell, Jan Teague and Larry Standridge of Sikeston High School; David Kenedy and Ricky Bost of Matthews High School; Jill Hechert of Charleston High; and Marsha Newman of Southeast Missouri State University. Th graduates also received a gift from the church and Pastor and Mrs. Loren Wooten last Sunday in the morning service.

Guest group to sing

The Gospel Edition of Flat River will be guest singers for the youth service at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Second Street Church of God, 107 Second St. The service is open to all age groups.

Christian athlete fellowhip bears out vision by Rickey

KANSAS CITY — "I envision a great crowd of strong young men coming to know the power and the victory of following and serving the King of kings and Lord of lords."

No, it wasn't a minister or a theologian making the statement. Instead, it was a renowned sports figure -- the late Branch Rickey, Mr. Baseball, breaker of the color barrier, inventor of the farm system, one of the national pastime's immortal names.

Rickey made this comment 19 years ago this summer in Estes Park, Colo. The occasion was the first national conference held by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, a fledgling organization initially born and reared by Rickey and other professional baseball and football figures of that era.

Rickey stood in the mountain chapel addressing 256 crew-cut athletes and coaches as the FCA's keynote speaker. Today his vision has become reality. The "great crowd of strong young men" grows each summer. This year it will reach 10,000 athletes and coaches attending, not one, but 28 weeks of FCA conferences, according to FCA national headquarters.

There have been changes since 1956. The hair is longer, the language of a new era is different, many more geographical regions and sports are represented, and the conferences are only one part of a year-round sports-faith ministry.

And today Rickey might well say "strong young persons," as female athletes also have a key role in the fellowship.

But some things do not change The format of the week is about the same -- a combination of "inspiration and perspiration"; athletes sharing competition and faith' athletes learning that the concepts of sports -- teamwork, loyalty commitment, sacrifice, handling victory and defeat -- are applicable to all of life.

And in a day when organized sport is plagued by internal problems and external pressures, strong leadership is needed from the junior high, senior high and college ranks. If comments from the 1974 conferees are a barometer, the conference goal of building matue Christian leadership is being achieved:

"I've learned about loving people rather than just faking it."

"I feel closer to guys I've known four days than some people I've known my whole life."

"In my neighborhood if you talk about loving some guy, you'll need a dental job. But I learned about that kind of love here."

"Somethin' weird has come over me. I feel like everyone here is my brother."

"As a coach I've learned to treat people as people and not just as objects to be used to win a game."

"There is a joy that is nearly inexplainable in playing on a winning team, and when you play on God's team, you've won."

"Man, this week I have been on a natural high!"

Pro athletes and college athletes and coaches comprise the conference leadership. A typical day's schedule includes calistenics, a quiet time, morning an evening assemblies, "huddle" discussion sessions, competition in the "Dogpatch Olympics" and athletic clinics, demonstratins and special events.

Eighteen of the conference weeks will be held coast to coast. New sites include Granby, Colo., Elizabethtown (Pa.) College and Pitzer College in Claremont, Calif. The other 10 conferences will be held at the FCA's National Resource Center, a 350-acre site near Marshall, Inc., opened last summer.

Among the conferences will be four for high school girl athletes and several for junior high athletes. Also, national coaches conferences will be held in Colorado and Wisconsin.

"We anticipate the summer schedule with mounting excitement," said Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry, chairman of the FCA board of trustees. "There are many, many sports camps, but we believe ours to be among the most established and the most unique in terms of staff and content.

Seminex interns to train outside synod

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Lutheran Seminary in Exile has taken another big step in its protest movement within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

About 30 of Seminex's 90 vicars, or interns, will take field training outside the synod this fall with the Lutheran Church of America, Seminex officials said recently.

The Lutheran Church of America, the most liberal of the three Lutheran denominations, is separate from the Missouri Synod and has never had synod interns.

he Rev. Paul Lessmann, Seminx intern director, admitted the move probably would antagonize synod conservatives, but said Seminex had few choices because the synod-placement committee had refused to approve Seminex vicars.

The Rev. Jacob Preus, synod president, said that Seminex could do what it wanted, since it is not part of the synod.

About 60 of the interns have been accepted in synod congregations, but without official synod approval.

Seminex was formed last year by dissident students and faculty members of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

Doctor to discuss healing of Jesus

NEW MADRID — A Malden chiropractor will speak on the healing ministry of Jesus during the 7 p.m. service Sunday before the Trinity Charismatic Church congregation, which meets in the New Jadrid Community Building.

Dr. Larry Webster, the guest speaker, operates Webster Chiropractic Clinic in Malden, where he is a member of the Baptist church.

Trinity Charismatic Church is a nondenominational, full gospel congregation. The morning service begins at 10 o'clock, and the pastor is the Rev. Larry McClarty.

Bloomfield woman publishes second book

BLOOMFIELD — "The Earth is His", a new devotional book written by Mrs. Norma Ellsworth and published by the General Baptist Press at Poplar Bluff, includes devotions for both private and pubic use.

Mrs. Ellsworth is a Bloomfield resident and a member of the General Baptist Church. The book is her second. She has written devotions for church groups for several years.

"The Earth is His" is on sale in the local area at Bertie's Store in Bloomfield and General Baptist Book Store in Poplar Bluff. A copy will also be placed in Bloomfield Public Library.

Full Gospel Business Men's meeting planned

The Sikeston chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place.

The speaker will be the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of Calvary Assembly Church.

The meeting is opoen to men and women of all denominations.

TV performer to be speaker at Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — Tom Lester who plays "Eb" on the Television show, "Green Acres", will speak during the morning worship service Sunday as a part of the special Mother's Day program at First Baptist Church.

Lester, who was born in Laurel, Miss., and presently lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., is a dedicated Christian and has consistently refused to accept any parts either on television or in the movies that would require him to go against what he believes as a Christian.

He has been in constant demand as a guest speaker and has spoken at numerous Billy Graham crusades.

In addition to Lester's appearance, the Rev. Richrd Adams, pastor, said the church plans to present every mother present in Sunday School a special "sweetheart rose."

Teen singers to visit Marston

MARSTON — The Teen-spirations, a youth group from Matthews, will sing at a youth-centred service open to all age groups at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Marston United Methodist Church.

Singing event slated Sunday

BLOOMFIELD — A gospel singing program will be presented Sunday at 2 p.m. in Philadelphia Missionary Baptist Church.

The Castor River Quartet and other groups will sing.

154-year-old Apple Creek church event set May 18

POCAHONTAS — Friends and members of Apple Creek Presbyterian Memorial Association will gather at the old Apple Creek Presbyterian Church near here on May 18 for the annual third Sunday in May service and basket dinner on the grounds.

The Rev. Norma Schlobohm, minister of the Lutesville United Presbyterian Church will conduct the service.

The historic old church was founded in 1821 and is one of the oldest Presbyterian churches west of the Mississippi River. The adjoining well-maintained cemetery is the final resting place of numerous members of many prominent families throughout Missouri and the midwest.

The original membership rolls, burial records and other historic information pertaining to the first 119 years of the church's existence are carefully preserved by officials of the association and are used frequently in assisting people who live away from the area and are endeavoring to obtain information agout ancestors who were members of the church and are buried in the cemetery.

The Apple Creek Memoorial Association was formed to perpetuate the memory of Apple Creek Presbyterian Church, its members of years ago, the church buildings and the Apple Creek Presbyterian Churvh cemetery. The church has not had a full-time miniser or regular church services since 1939.

The committee arranging the annual third Sunday in May service and basket dinner is hopeful of a large turnout of association members and friends.

Current officers and trustees of the association are: Lee G. Cochran, president; Robert Hope, first vice president; Allen Henderson, second vice president; Newell McKee, third vice president; Miss Margaret Reed, secretary; Harold M. Hope, treasurer; Hays Hope, historian; C. W. Knox;, superintendent of building and grounds; Robert Henderson, music; and Roy Yancey, William Martin, Hobson Bess, James Hope, Mrs. Irene Kasten and Rusby Adams, trustees.

A business session will convene at 1:30 p.m., during which several items of association business will be transacted. An election of officers and trustees for the 1975-1976 year will also be held.

Reprints of two booklets on the early history of Apple Creek Presbyterian Church are now available. They are entitled: "A Sketch of First Apple Creek Church (1821-1911)," by Willis Knox, and "The History of the First Apple Creek Presbyterian Church", by Mrs. John H. Kasten (nee Irene Short).

Both booklets will be available at he church before and after the service. They may also be obtained by writing to Harold M. Hope, Highway 61 East, Jackson, Mo. 63755.

David Poling, D.D.

Remembering why we go to church

By David Poling

"The de-emphasis on church growth means a reemphasis on the Old Testament. One of the reasons the church in recent years has been so wide of the mark is that it has lost its historic roots". — Robert K. Hudnut

Robert Hudnut is hard to ignore. His books are hard to put down for he has been dealing with the church and its problems for nearly a decade and keeps coming up with wild suggestions for change. Earlier works such as "The Sleeping Giant" and then, "Arousing the Sleeping Giant" caused considerable comment among the brethren. Hudnut writes as a pastor to people and his latest volume challenges the activism of the religious community.

"Church Growth is Not the Point" (Harper and Row) is going to irritate many readers by the title alone. We all thought that growth and enlargement was central to the goals of any religious organization. So does Hudnut. But the point, for him in matters of faith, is not to be found in numbers and success. The highest goal is to put people in a living relationship with God and not permit the organization to detour that pilgrimage. And the best blueprint begins in the Old Testament where individuals get pushed and pulled by a Power greater than their hopes and desires.

At times Hudnut sounds like a Presbyterian Jew. He argues for the action of God against reluctant men. "We have lost some of the awesome dimension of being told what to do in the Judeo-Christian tradition — whether we want to do it or not. Their own desires and abilities were completely beside the point to Moses, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Hannah and countless others in our tradition".

The concept here — and in the Bible — is that man has his own agenda and is always interrupted by the plans and purpose of God. Hudnut fears that the church today is so enamored of its own schedule of activity and progress that there is little room for the moving of the Spirit. This book points to the, if you will pardon the expression, the passive role of the congregation. The point is to listen, to receive, to respond to the action of the Holy Spirit which is the high goal of the religious encounter.

Hudnut states that the biggest concept that one should receive from the pulpit is the message of reconciliation and forgiveness. He's right. THE BIBLE

186. King Jehu Confronts King Joram

Jehu told his friends and supporters not to allow anyone to escape to Jezreel to report what had transpired at Ramoth-gilead. Then Jehu took his chariot and rode to Jezreel to find King Joram. When the watchman on the tower saw Jehu, King Joram sent a rider to discover if the charioteer was a friend or foe. Jehu put the soldier behind him, as he also did the second messenger sent by King Joram.

When King Joram recognized Jehu, he and King Ahaziah of Judah rode out to the field of Naboth, and asked if he came in peace. But Jehu stated that there could not be friendship as long as the evils of Jezebel surrounded them. Joram wheeled to flee, "And Jehu drew a bow with his full strength, and smote Joram between his arms; and the arrow went out at his heart, and he sunk down in his chariot." (II Kings 9:24)

When Ahaziah fled, Jehu commanded his men to smite him in the chariot, and they did near Gur, though he was able to reach Megiddo before he died. Joram's body was dumped in Naboth's vineyard, while Ahaziah was buried in Jerusalem.

Wall Brothers to return

First Assembly of God Church will honor its graduating high school seniors with a banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn, Highway 61 South. The Wall Brothers, a musical duo from Sioux City, Iowa, will be present to present a musical program. The brothers, Greg and Kraig, previously visited the church March 16 and were so well received that they were asked to return for this event. The seniors being honored are Sondra Matthews, Cherrie Mitchell, Jan Teague and Larry Standridge of Sikeston High School; David Kenedy and Ricky Bost of Matthews High School; Jill Hechert of Charleston High; and Marsha Newman of Southeast Missouri State University. Th graduates also received a gift from the church and Pastor and Mrs. Loren Wooten last Sunday in the morning service.

Guest group to sing

The Gospel Edition of Flat River will be guest singers for the youth service at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Second Street Church of God, 107 Second St. The service is open to all age groups.

Christian athlete fellowhip bears out vision by Rickey

KANSAS CITY — "I envision a great crowd of strong young men coming to know the power and the victory of following and serving the King of kings and Lord of lords."

No, it wasn't a minister or a theologian making the statement. Instead, it was a renowned sports figure -- the late Branch Rickey, Mr. Baseball, breaker of the color barrier, inventor of the farm system, one of the national pastime's immortal names.

Rickey made this comment 19 years ago this summer in Estes Park, Colo. The occasion was the first national conference held by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, a fledgling organization initially born and reared by Rickey and other professional baseball and football figures of that era.

Rickey stood in the mountain chapel addressing 256 crew-cut athletes and coaches as the FCA's keynote speaker. Today his vision has become reality. The "great crowd of strong young men" grows each summer. This year it will reach 10,000 athletes and coaches attending, not one, but 28 weeks of FCA conferences, according to FCA national headquarters.

There have been changes since 1956. The hair is longer, the language of a new era is different, many more geographical regions and sports are represented, and the conferences are only one part of a year-round sports-faith ministry.

And today Rickey might well say "strong young persons," as female athletes also have a key role in the fellowship.

But some things do not change The format of the week is about the same -- a combination of "inspiration and perspiration"; athletes sharing competition and faith' athletes learning that the concepts of sports -- teamwork, loyalty commitment, sacrifice, handling victory and defeat -- are applicable to all of life.

And in a day when organized sport is plagued by internal problems and external pressures, strong leadership is needed from the junior high, senior high and college ranks. If comments from the 1974 conferees are a barometer, the conference goal of building matue Christian leadership is being achieved:

"I've learned about loving people rather than just faking it."

"I feel closer to guys I've known four days than some people I've known my whole life."

"In my neighborhood if you talk about loving some guy, you'll need a dental job. But I learned about that kind of love here."

"Somethin' weird has come over me. I feel like everyone here is my brother."

"As a coach I've learned to treat people as people and not just as objects to be used to win a game."

"There is a joy that is nearly inexplainable in playing on a winning team, and when you play on God's team, you've won."

"Man, this week I have been on a natural high!"

Pro athletes and college athletes and coaches comprise the conference leadership. A typical day's schedule includes calistenics, a quiet time, morning an evening assemblies, "huddle" discussion sessions, competition in the "Dogpatch Olympics" and athletic clinics, demonstratins and special events.

Eighteen of the conference weeks will be held coast to coast. New sites include Granby, Colo., Elizabethtown (Pa.) College and Pitzer College in Claremont, Calif. The other 10 conferences will be held at the FCA's National Resource Center, a 350-acre site near Marshall, Inc., opened last summer.

Among the conferences will be four for high school girl athletes and several for junior high athletes. Also, national coaches conferences will be held in Colorado and Wisconsin.

"We anticipate the summer schedule with mounting excitement," said Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry, chairman of the FCA board of rustees. "There are many, many sports camps, but we believe ours to be among the most established and the most unique in terms of staff and content.

Seminex interns to train outside synod

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Lutheran Seminary in Exile has taken another big step in its protest movement within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

About 30 of Seminex's 90 vicars, or interns, will take field training outside the synod this fall with the Lutheran Church of America, Seminex officials said recently.

The Lutheran Church of America, the most liberal of the three Lutheran denominations, is separate from the Missouri Synod and has never had synod interns.

he Rev. Paul Lessmann, Seminx intern director, admitted the move probably would antagonize synod conservatives, but said Seminex had few choices because the synod placement committee had refused to approve Seminex vicars.

The Rev. Jacob Preus, synod president, said that Seminex could do what it wanted, since it is not part of the synod.

About 60 of the interns have been accepted in synod congregations, but without official synod approval.

Seminex was formed last year by dissident students and faculty members of Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

Doctor to discuss healing of Jesus

NEW MADRID — A Malden chiropractor will speak on the healing ministry of Jesus during the 7 p.m. service Sunday before the Trinity Charismatic Church congregation, which meets in the New Jadrid Community Building.

Dr. Larry Webster, the guest speaker, operates Webster Chiropractic Clinic in Malden, where he is a member of the Baptist church.

Trinity Charismatic Church is a nondenominational, full gospel congregation. The morning service begins at 10 o'clock, and the pastor is the Rev. Larry McClarty.

Bloomfield woman publishes second book

BLOOMFIELD — "The Earth is His", a new devotional book written by Mrs. Norma Ellsworth and published by the General Baptist Press at Poplar Bluff, includes devotions for both private and pubic use.

Mrs. Ellsworth is a Bloomfield resident and a member of the General Baptist Church. The book is her second. She has written devotions for church groups for several years.

"The Earth is His" is on sale in the local area at Bertie's Store in Bloomfield and General Baptist Book Store in Poplar Bluff. A copy will also be placed in Bloomfield Public Library.

Full Gospel Business Men's meeting planned

The Sikeston chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place.

The speaker will be the Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of Calvary Assembly Church.

The meeting is opoen to men and women of all denominations.

TV performer to be speaker at Portageville

PORTAGEVILLE — Tom Lester who plays "Eb" on the Television show, "Green Acres", will speak during the morning worship service Sunday as a part of the special Mother's Day program at First Baptist Church.

Lester, who was born in Laurel, Miss., and presently lives in Beverly Hills, Calif., is a dedicated Christian and has consistently refused to accept any parts either on television or in the movies that would require him to go against what he believes as a Christian.

He has been in constant demand as a guest speaker and has spoken at numerous Billy Graham crusades.

In addition to Lester's appearance, the Rev. Richrd Adams, pastor, said the church plans to present every mother present in Sunday School a special "sweetheart rose."

Teen singers to visit Marston

MARSTON — The Teenspirations, a youth group from Matthews, will sing at a youth-centred service open to all age groups at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Marston United Methodist Church.

Singing event slated Sunday

BLOOMFIELD — A gospel singing program will be presented Sunday at 2 p.m. in Philadelphia Missionary Baptist Church.

The Castor River Quartet and other groups will sing.

154-year-old Apple Creek church event set May 18

POCAHONTAS — Friends and members of Apple Creek Presbyterian Memorial Association will gather at the old Apple Creek Presbyterian Church near here on May 18 for the annual third Sunday in May service and basket dinner on the grounds.

The Rev. Norma Schlobohm, minister of the Lutesville United Presbyterian Church will conduct the service.

The historic old church was founded in 1821 and is one of the oldest Presbyterian churches west of the Mississippi River. The adjoining well-maintained cemetery is the final resting place of numerous members of many prominent families throughout Missouri and the midwest.

The original membership rolls, burial records and other historic information pertaining to the first 119 years of the church's existence are carefully preserved by officials of the association and are used frequently in assisting people who live away from the area and are endeavoring to obtain information agout ancestors who were members of the church and are buried in the cemetery.

The Apple Creek Memoorial Association was formed to perpetuate the memory of Apple Creek Presbyterian Church, its members of years ago, the church buildings and the Apple Creek Presbyterian Churvh cemetery. The church has not had a full-time miniser or regular church services since 1939.

The committee arranging the annual third Sunday in May service and basket dinner is hopeful of a large turnout of association members and friends.

Current officers and trustees of the association are: Lee G. Cochran, president; Robert Hope, first vice president; Allen Henderson, second vice president; Newell McKee, third vice president; Miss Margaret Reed, secretary; Harold M. Hope, treasurer; Hays Hope, historian; C. W. Knox;, superintendent of building and grounds; Robert Henderson, music; and Roy Yancey, William Martin, Hobson Bess, James Hope, Mrs. Irene Kasten and Rusby Adams, trustees.

A business session will convene at 1:30 p.m., during which several items of association business will be transacted. An election of officers and trustees for the 1975-1976 year will also be held.

Reprints of two booklets on the early history of Apple Creek Presbyterian Church are now available. They are entitled: "A Sketch of First Apple Creek Church (1821-1911)," by Willis Knox, and "The History of the First Apple Creek Presbyterian Church", by Mrs. John H. Kasten (nee Irene Short).

Both booklets will be available at he church before and after the service. They may also be obtained by writing to Harold M. Hope, Highway 61 East, Jackson, Mo. 63755.

Remembering why we go to church

By David Poling

"The de-emphasis on church growth means a reemphasis on the Old Testament. One of the reasons the church in recent years has been so wide of the mark is that it has lost its historic roots". — Robert K. Hudnut

Robert Hudnut is hard to ignore. His books are hard to put down for he has been dealing with the church and its problems for nearly a decade and keeps coming up with wild suggestions for change. Earlier works such as "The Sleeping Giant" and then, "Arousing the Sleeping Giant" caused considerable comment among the brethren. Hudnut writes as a pastor to people and his latest volume challenges the activism of the religious community.

"Church Growth is Not the Point" (Harper and Row) is going to irritate many readers by the title alone. We all thought that growth and enlargement was central to the goals of any religious organization. So does Hudnut. But the point, for him in matters of faith, is not to be found in numbers and success. The highest goal is to put people in a living relationship with God and not permit the organization to detour that pilgrimage. And the best blueprint begins in the Old Testament where individuals get pushed and pulled by a Power greater than their hopes and desires.

At times Hudnut sounds like a Presbyterian Jew. He argues for the action of God against reluctant men. "We have lost some of the awesome dimension of being told what to do in the Judeo-Christian tradition — whether we want to do it or not. Their own desires and abilities were completely beside the point to Moses, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Hannah and countless others in our tradition".

The concept here — and in the Bible — is that man has his own agenda and is always interrupted by the plans and purpose of God. Hudnut fears that the church today is so enamored of its own schedule of activity and progress that there is little room for the moving of the Spirit. This book points to the, if you will pardon the expression, the passive role of the congregation. The point is to listen, to receive, to respond to the action of the Holy Spirit which is the high goal of the religious encounter.

Hudnut states that the biggest concept that one should receive from the pulpit is the message of reconciliation and forgiveness. He's right. People attend church out of great need, injury, and soul-deep wounds. Too often they are served some strange mixture of political science, quaint Bible study, or philosophical reflections on art. SCHOOLS SAID TRYING TO DO TOO MUCH

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Schools cost too much because they are trying to do too much, Michael Bakalis, former Illinois superintendent of public instruction, says.

Bakalis, now a visiting professor of education at Northwestern University and the University of Illinois here, urges schools to concentrate on two goals. They are teaching children skills, such as reading and analytical thinking, needed for a lifetime of learning, and helping youngsters develop a positive self-concept.

He said that we have been throwing on to the schools the responsibility for being leaders in desegregating, sex education and drug education, "which I am not sure they are able to do."

Food prices gauged by crops, weather

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rate at which retail food prices are climbing may start to decline later this year if farmers get the right amount of sunshine and rain at the proper times, says the Agriculture Department.

But if the corn isn't planted on time and there is another drought this summer, look out.. In that case, 1975 food prices will not only go up sharply but will probably take off on another space trip next year.

"As the year progresses, food prices will become more dependent upon 1975 crop conditions both in this country and abroad," the department said Thursday. "Developments relating to general economic conditions, domestic and worldwide, can also be expected to impact on food prices."

A bumper crop, along with wheat and other grains, would translate into lower feed prices for those who produce the meat, poultry and dairy products which make up so much of family food budgets.

In that case, the department said consumers might see retail food prices rise 6 to 8 per cent over the entire year, compared with a 14.5 per cent jump in 1973 and again in 1974.

But if farmers' crops are whittled by poor weather as they were last year, then the Agriculture Department says food prices will go up 8 to 10 per cent. Even so, those increases would be the smallest since 1972 when there was a 4.3 per cent rise.

Malden names top honorees

MALDEN-Miss Nancy Miles has been named valedictorian of the 1975 graduating class at Malden High School. The salutatorian is Nick Arnold.

Miss Miles completed her secondary education with a grade-point average of 10.60.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miles, 401 Washington, and plans to enroll at Southwestern University in Memphis, Tenn., where she will work toward a degree in psychology.

The active coed took part in band, cheerleading and pep club activities her freshman year, when she also served as class reporter and won the French I award. Beta Club and Band Club was added to her activities her sophomore year, during which she won the biology award and was selected as an annual queen attendant.

Interest in Beta Club, cheerleading, Pep Club, Drama Club and volleyball dominated her junior year activities, and she also was selected as an attendant to the football queen. Her senior year has been spent in activities involving the Beta Club, Pep Club, Drama Club and French Club, with time also to serve as a yearbook staff officer and a member of the Waves school newspaper staff.

Arnold, who completed his high school requirements with a 10.58 grade-point average is the son of Mrs. Betty Arnold, 412 N. Beckwith.

He plans to spend the summer traveling throughout North America and this fall enroll at Brown University in Providence, R.I., where he will work toward a degree in sociology or economics.

Sports has highlighted the activity career of Arnold at Malden High School. He was an outstanding member of the MHS golf and football teams for four years and also took part in track.

He was a member of the student council his freshman year and a a member of the Beta Club his sophomore year. He was named most valuable back on the football squad his junior year and was named to the all-conference football squad.

As a junior he took the national preliminary scholastic aptitude test and was named a semifinalist for the Merit Scholarship Award. His senior year he has served as editor of "The Waves," and was a member of the Beta Club.

What's the law?

The case of the cautious inspector

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Sarah smelled gas in her basement and called the gas company. And while an inspector came with dispatch, he came without a flashlight.

Descending into the pitch black basement, the inspector proved to be an admirably cautious individual. Rather than turn on a light and risk a spark and explosion from the light switch, he cautiously and very carefully lit a match.

The "BO-O-M!!" that followed was deafening. And while the inspector ultimately recovered from his injuries, Sarah's house was less fortunate. It was completely demolished by the explosion, the cause of which was later traced to a gas leak created by a construction company that was excavating nearby.

Armed with this information, Sarah sued the construction company for the sudden demise of her house.

"She can't hold us responsible," protested the officials of the construction company. "We didn't blow up her house. The culprit was that wacky inspector who lit a match in a gas-filled basement. While her house was held together by nails and screws, it was that nut who destroyed it and not us."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the construction company responsible for the demise of Sarah's house?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that when a person creates a dangerous situation which may be triggered, negligently or otherwise, to the damage of a third person, his is the basic wrongful act and he may not escape responsibility by emphasizing the negligence of another wrongdoer.

head off Stewart and failed.

He and the two out-of-state police cars pursued Stewart into East Prairie at speeds over 100 miles per hour. Eddleman said Stewart then took a lot of side streets, trying to elude the officers. East Prairie city police joined the chase.

The chase ended on Davis St. in East Prairie about 1 a.m. "We were so close, I guess he decided to give up and try to escape on foot," Eddleman said.

The two passengers were apprehended in the car, but Stewart ran off through some empty lots. Police apprehended him about 10 or 15 minutes later, hiding in a field.

CARNATIONS FOR MOMS

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Carnations have been worn as the official Mother's Day flower since the holiday was first observed in the U.S. This custom was once thought to have started with President William McKinley, who frequently wore a white carnation. But Hallmark researchers have found that the flower was the suggestion of Anna Jarvis, who was mainly responsible for launching the annual celebration of Mother's Day.

Miss Jarvis often gave out carnations on that day as they were her mother's favorite flower. She called them "symbols of sweetness, of purity and endurance." At first only white flowers were worn. But gradually the wearing of red carnations by those with living mothers and white ones by those whose mothers are deceased became part of the Mother's Day tradition.

Hoffman files for election

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ousted State Rep. John Hoffman has filed for the 1976 election to regain his Southwest Missouri seat.

In a mostly partisan vote Thursday, the House replaced Hoffman, a Republican, with his Democratic challenger from the contested November election.

The House installed Harry Blackwell, who had held the post from 1966 to 1970. The district covers part of northern Greene and Polk counties.

Hoffman won the election by five votes, but the race was called a draw after the last of several recounts.

On a 100-48 vote, the House unseated the 30-year-old Willard farmer after examining 23 contested paper ballots.

"I'm a candidate for the office and will let the people of my district make the final decision on the outcome of this election in November 1976," Hoffman said.

"I do not look back to the actions of today, but look forward to tomorrow," he said after clearing his desk in the House chamber. "I shall return."

No Republicans and only three Democrats crossed party lines in the vote. The House now contains 114 Democrats and 49 Republicans.

Partisan comments marked some of the two-hour debate.

"The fraud was on the part of the county clerk, the Republican County clerk," Democratic Floor Leader Kenneth Rothman of Clayton. "He stole that election."

Rothman accused Greene County Clerk Roy Blunt of failing to interpret state law on how ballots that have improper markings should be counted.

"This is another historic example," countered Carthage Republican Robert Ellis Young, "that the majority party, no matter what party, is going to exercise this power to its own advantage."

But St. Joseph Democrat Mark Youngdahl, who made the motion to seat Blackwell, said, "I detect a greater amount of partisanship on the Republican side from the county clerk on up."

Several Republicans, including Minority Floor Leader Robert Snyder walked out of the chamber when Blackwell came forward to take the oath.

Blackwell said he has been keeping up with House developments so he could be better oriented to the post.

Attempts to have the decision delayed or hold a new election were defeated. Different tallies of the election results were offered on the House floor during earlier debate.

"I think this is a clear indication we do not know how many votes either candidate had," St. Charles Republican Fred Dryer said. Four official vote tallies gave Hoffman the race and the fifth made it a tie.

Hoffman, who had been serving on the nonpartisan Willard City Council, said he would resume his council seat.

"I'll just abide by the House's decision and know I'm right," he said.

Inventory decline good for economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department reported today that inventories of the nation's businesses fell by a record $1.9 billion in March, showing that the inventory liquidation necessary for an economic recovery was continuing.

Administration economists say businesses must reduce their massive stockpiles of goods before production of new goods can begin. When new production begins, it will mean more goods.

The declines in inventories in March occurred at all levels of the economy. They were down $685 million at the manufacturing level, $645 million at retail and $594 million at wholesale.

However, the Commerce Department said sales declined even faster than inventories in March, which would be a disturbing development if the trend of lower sales continues in months ahead. The administration has been counting on consumer purchasing of goods to help lead the nation's economy out of its current recession.

Sales declined 2.5 per cent at the manufacturing level, 1.9 per cent at retail and 3.3 per cent at wholesale.

Compensation for billboard owners

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State dollars will go to billboard owners whose signs must come down, according to an amendment approved Thursday by the Missouri Senate to a proposed billboard law.

The bill itself, which lengthens the list of illegal signs, was held over for later consideration.

The amendment insuring just compensation for legally erected signs passed 14-11 over the objections of Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, who said it would "line the pockets" of the billboard industry.

"Let's don't amend the bill to give the industry windfall," he said.

The approved amendment was a substitute for an earlier proposed change by Waters to allow compensatin only if federal funds were available for it.

He objected to Sen. Richard Webster's successful amendment because he claimed it would provide payment even if billboard owners did not comply with State Highway Department regulations.

Webster, a Carthage Republican, said his only concern was that constitutuional provisions providing for just compensation be upheld.

Partisan comments marked some of the two-hour debate.

"The fraud was on the part of the county clerk, the Republican County clerk," Democratic Floor Leader Kenneth Rothman of Clayton. "He stole that election."

Rothman accused Greene County Clerk Roy Blunt of failing to interpret state law on how ballots that have improper markings should be counted.

"This is another historic example," countered Carthage Republican Robert Ellis Young, "that the majority party, no matter what party, is going to exercise this power to its own advantage."

But St. Joseph Democrat Mark Youngdahl, who made the motion to seat Blackwell, said, "I detect a greater amount of partisanship on the Republican side from the county clerk on up."

Several Republicans, including Minority Floor Leader Robert Snyder walked out of the chamber when Blackwell came forward to take the oath.

Blackwell said he has been keeping up with House developments so he could be better oriented to the post.

Attempts to have the decision delayed or hold a new election were defeated. Different tallies of the election results were offered on the House floor during earlier debate.

"I think this is a clear indication we do not know how many votes either candidate had," St. Charles Republican Fred Dryer said. Four official vote tallies gave Hoffman the race and the fifth made it a tie.

Hoffman, who had been serving on the nonpartisan Willard City Council, said he would resume his council seat.

"I'll just abide by the House's decision and know I'm right," he said.

Compensation for billboard owners

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State dollars will go to billboard owners whose signs must come down, according to an amendment approved Thursday by the Missouri Senate to a proposed billboard law.

The bill itself, which lengthens the list of illegal signs, was held over for later consideration.

The amendment insuring just compensation for legally erected signs passed 14-11 over the objections of Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, who said it would "line the pockets" of the billboard industry.

"Let's don't amend the bill to give the industry windfall," he said

The approved amendment was a substitute for an earlier proposed change by Waters to allow compensatin only if federal funds were available for it.

He objected to Sen. Richard Webster's successful amendment because he claimed it would provide payment even if billboard owners did not comply with State Highway Department regulations.

Webster, a Carthage Republican, said his only concern was that constitutuional provisions providing for just compensation be upheld.

If you won't be getting a pension...read this...

Many people are not covered by a pension program with their employer.

If you're one of them, there is now a tax-deferred way for you to build toward your own retirement fund.

With a Metropolitan Individual Retirement Program you can defer taxes each year on up to 15% of your income or $1,500, whichever is less, by putting this income to work to help assure your future financial security.

A pension is nice to look forward to. But if it's not in the cards for you, give me a call and I'll show you what Metropolitan can do to take its place.

TENNIS

DALLAS — Australia's John Alexander overwhelmed jittery Roscoe Tanner of the United States 6-3, 6-2, 6-3 in a straight set rout in the quarterfinals of the World Championship of Tennis.

AIX EN PROVENCE, France — Julie Heldman and Kathy Kuykendall beat Ingrid Bentzer and Marie Wikstedt, Sweden's No. 2 player, 2-6, 7-5, 8-6 to give the United States a 2-1 victory over Sweden in the second round of the Federation Cup Women's Tennis Championships.

MUNICH — Guillermo Vilas of Argentina defeated Frantisek Pala of Czechoslovakia 7-6, 7-6 to gain a quarter-finals berth in the Bavarian Tennis Championships.

Kelly district champions

Coach Ed Street's Kelly Hawks claimed the Bernie district baseball championship Thursday afternoon behind the one-hit pitching performance of Mike Brasher.

The hard throwing righthander blanked the Lilbourn Panthers 3-0 and relied on the power hitting of a pair of his teammates for his runs. Brasher fanned 11 Panther batters while walking two and faced only 24 batters in the seven inning affair.

Kelly broke open the scoreless deadlock in the third inning when Doug Johnson scored on Dave Roberts hit after singling, stealing second and advancing to third on a wild pitch.

The Hawks added single tallies in the fourth and fifth innings on home runs off the bats of Kenny Hulshoff and Jamie Burger.

Bill Rodman was tagged with the loss. He allowed five hits and fanned five while walking one batter.

Kelly hosts the regional playoffs May 16-17 where they face the Chaffee district champ and the winners of the Hayti and Van Buren district's square off.

Phils master Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Pitcher Bob Gibson and center fielder Bake McBride have come up with sore muscles, causing Manager Red Schoendienst to revise further the lineup of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'm not doing any more switching though," Schoendienst said Thursday in reference to a succession of changes he's made recently in a futile try to lift his National League team from a slump.

"The only switching we're planning on doing is on the railroad," Schoendienst added wryly. "Right now it looks like somebody's pulled the wrong switch, and we're derailed."

Prior to Thursday's 6-2 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies, the club's 11th setback in 14 games, the Cards said Gibson would be shelved because of a strained muscle in his right shoulder.

"He strained it when he was warming up the other night," Schoendienst said later. "We're hoping he'll miss only one turn, but John Curtis will take his place Saturday night."

Right fielder Reggie Smith, meanwhile, missed a second straight Cards game Thursday with a back strain he suffered in an 11-3 triumph over the Phils on Monday.

And Schoendienst said the 26-year-old McBride, who last year snared National League Rookie of the Year honors but is this year hitting only .244, would be benched tonight against the San Francisco Giants because of a muscle pull under his left arm.

Utilityman Ron Fairly is scheduled to remain in Smith's position for the opener of a three-game weekend series, with Jim Dwyer to take McBride's place.

"We've been playing bad," conceded Schoendienst, who declined to pin the blame for the Cards' defeats on rookies Keith Hernandez, who is hitting .215 at first base, and John Denny, who was shelled by the Phillies as Thursday's first of four Card pitchers.

"He's too tense," Schoendienst said in reference to the 22-year-old Denny, who has a 2-2 record. "If we could ever get going real good, he'd walk out there and relax and find a groove.

"When you've got young kids like a Denny and a Hernandez," Schoendienst observed, "it's pretty hard for them to pick us up."

Aces edge comets

The Benton Aces edged the Vanduser Comets 7-6 Wednesday night in district softball play. Bill Gilliland was the winning pitcher and ODonnell the losing hurler.

David Gilliland smashed a triple to make his mark as one of Benton's leading players. Glen Greene had a total of two hits to make himself an outstanding leader, along with Urhahn, Gilliland, David Gilliland, and Mike Morrow all had one hit each.

Friday night Sikeston will be pitted against Benton at Sikeston. The win gave Benton a 2-0 record in league play and a 7-1 overall record for the season.

Ex-mate takes care of Reds

AP Sports Writer

Gene Locklear saw red Thursday night...and the Reds saw Gene Locklear.

"If I had to pick a team I'd like to go 4-for-4 against, it would be the Reds," said Locklear, a full-blooded Lumbee Indian but an ex-Red man—i.e., he had a 29-game trial with the Cincinnati Reds in 1973.

The 25-year-old outfielder collected two singles and two doubles and scored twice as the San Diego Padres snapped the Reds' four-game winning streak behind Randy Jones' four-hit pitching.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the New York Mets 4-2 and the Atlanta Braves edged the San Francisco Giants 3-2. Chicago, Montreal, Los Angeles and Houston were not scheduled.

Locklear's feud with the Reds dates back to 1973, when he came to bat only 26 times in those 29 games, managing five singles for a .192 batting average.

"I wasn't given a fair chance here," he said. "The only thing I was doing was pinch hitting."

Locklear isn't ecstatic in San Diego, either. The Padres acquired him from Cincinnati on June 12, 1973, and he spent the rest of the season with them, appearing in 67 games. But he only got into 39 games last season, spending most of the year in the minors.

"I was hitting .310 last year and they jerked me out of the line-up," he said.

And Manager John McNamara called him on the carpet for not taking batting practice before a recent game. But McNamara also installed him in the line-up recently and the 4-for-4 performance boosted his average to .524—and 9-for-13 since the chewing-out.

Locklear had to share honors, however, with Jones, who allowed only four singles and faced just 28 batters—one above the minimum. Three Cincinnati baserunners were erased on double plays. Dave Winfield hit his seventh homer for San Diego.

Jones' fourth victory in six decisions lowered his earned run average to 1.62 in 50 innings. A year ago he was the biggest loser in the majors with an 8-22 mark.

Phillies 6, Cardinals 2

Newly acquired Garry Maddox rapped out two doubles and a triple and drove in three runs while Greg Luzinski had a double and two singles and drove in the other three. Jim Lonborg blanked the Cards for seven innings before raising a blister and turning the pitching over to Gene Garber.

Bruce Kison scattered seven hits and delivered a tie-breaking two-run single in the fifth inning as Pittsburgh beat the Mets for the fifth time in as many meetings. Bill Robinson doubled and homered and scored the other Pittsburgh runs.

Kison's big hit came off Jerry Koosman after Manny Sanguillen walked and Dave Parker singled to start the fifth and they advanced on a sacrifice. Kison then bluffed a bunt but took a full swing and hit a bouncer up the middle.

One of the hits off Kison was John Milner's solo homer.

Braves 3, Giants 2

Dusty Baker drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and single and Tom House halted a ninth-inning San Francisco rally in relief of Ron Reed. Baker drove in one run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and singled following Darrell Evans' double to make it 2-0 in the fourth. The Braves got the decisive run in the seventh when Larvell Blanks tripled and scored on Biff Pocoroba's infield out.

Reed blanked the Giants until the ninth when they loaded the bases with one out on singles by Chris Speier and Dave Rader around a walk. Pinch hitter Glenn Adams drove in two runs with a single, his first major league hit, but House relieved, struck out Von Joshua and Derrel Thomas grounded into a game-ending forceout.

Kelly HS advances to finals

Kelly advanced to the finals of the district baseball tournament at Bernie Monday afternoon by posting a 10-7 victory over the host. Coach E. Streets's Hawks will battle Lilbourn for the district title at 4 p.m. today in Bernie.

Ron Schlosser fashioned a six hitter, fanning 11, but got into trouble in the seventh when the Mules rallied for five runs and took advantage of the fireballing righthanders control problems to score five runs. He walked 10 batters.

Mike Brasher led the Hawks 13 hit offensive attack with a three for four performance while teammates Doug Johnson and Girard Dirnberger connected for circuit clouts. Bernie's Doug Fears blasted a two run homer for the Mules in the fourth inning.

Kelly jumped to a 6-0 lead with six runs in the third and added a single tally in the fifth and three in the sixth while Bernie scored a pair in the fourth and five in the seventh.

OLYMPICS

As many as 3,000 young Missourians are expected to participate in the state's seventh annual Special Olympics, May 8-10, at Fort Leonard Wood.

The Special Olympics, jointly sponsored by the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, the State Department of Mental Health, and the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation, provides retarded children opportunities for sports training and athletic competition, according to Dr. Leonard W. Hall, assistant commissioner for Special Education, Department of Education, and a member of the Special Olympics Board.

"For many of these children, this outing will be their first chance to compete against other children of similar ability," stated Dr. Hall, "and their first opportunity to experience success in competition."

The program provides for competitors at all levels of ability by assigning them to "competition divisions" based on both age and actual performance. Even children in the lowest divisions may advance all the way to the national finals, to be held at Mt. Pleasant, Mich. in August.

Events consist of track and field, baseball, volleyball, swimming, gymnastics, basketball, and other sports. Sport clinics in a variety of activities are conducted by professional and amateur athletes.

Children must have competed in one of the 15 regional contests before attending the state meet.

As many as 300 children from the State Schools for Severely Handicapped, operated by the Department of Education, will participate in the state competition.

Dr. Hall stressed the Department of Education's encouragement to local school districts to participate by sending retarded children to compete in the events.

"Our handicapped students, like other youngsters, need and are entitled to success outside the classroom. The Special Olympics provides a singular opportunity for the retarded child to participate and experience achievement in competition. The rewards of the experience can be seen on the children's faces."

Kinsey said "It would not only be fun, but it would show the Cardinals that they have some fans down here in S.E.M.O."

SEMO LEADER

Lilbourn's Grant Dambach leads Southeast Missouri State Universtity's baseball team in almost every cataglory as the season moves into its final week of play.

The strong hitting righthander is battling .333 after 25 games and has appeared at the plate more than any othe Indian, going to bat 87 times. He has scored 23 runs, accumulated 29 hits (both lead the team) whole collecting four doubles one triple and two homers (all one short of the tam leadership) while driving in 15 runs. He has sacrificed five times and walked 11 during the season.

Jim Saulters of Sikeston seems to have shaken an early season slump and has built up his average to a .272 with five hits in 18 at bats. Rick Eisenbach, another SHS product, is battling .318 at none games with seven hits in 22 at bats.

PREAKNESS

At least eight horses stand ready to oppose Foolish Pleasure in the 100th running o the Preakness Stakes, with two owners willing to gamble an extra $10,000 that the Kentucky Derby winner won't take his second leg in the Triple Crown series.

Master Derby, fourth in last Saturday's derby, and Native Guest, winner of the El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood Park, would require a $10,000 supplementary entry fee because they were not nominated for the one and three-sixteenths mile classic.

Native Guest, a winner of four straight, as added to the fluctuating field Wednesday when owner W. A. Levin advised that the colt would arrive Saturday at Pimlico Race Curse, site of the May 17 Preakness.

Foolish Pleasure, who has lost only one of 12 career starts, is already on the Pimlico grounds. So are Avatar, Diabolo and Bold Chapeau, the second, third and eighth-place finishers in the Derby.

Master Derby, fourth in last Saturday's derby, and Native Guest, winner of the El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood Park, would require a $10,000 supplementary entry fee because they were not nominated for the one and three-sixteenths mile classic.

Native Guest, a winner of four straight, as added to the fluctuating field Wednesday when owner W. A. Levin advised that the colt would arrive Saturday at Pimlico Race Curse, site of the May 17 Preakness.

Foolish Pleasure, who has lost only one of 12 career starts, is already on the Pimlico grounds. So are Avatar, Diabolo and Bold Chapeau, the second, third and eighth-place finishers in the Derby.

NSM — No stated minimum price. These properties are offered as-is in Period II only on a one-time basis with reserve and HUD retains the right to refuse any and all offers.

Properties not sold at Tuesday bid-openings are automatically deleted herefrom pending Period changes, price adjustments and other actions by HUD, and will be relisted in the earliest practicable Friday advertisement.

Bid openings will normally be held on Tuesdays unless a legal holiday falls thereon in which case bids will be opened the next day, Wednesday. Normal Monday deadlines will be changed to preceding Fridays when a legal holiday falls on Monday. Otherwise intervening holidays will have no effect on the ten-calendar-day offering periods.

As-is offerings are listed for sale "AS-IS" with no warranty, not eligible for FHA mortgage insurance, all cash. The provisions of paragraph II of the sales contract do not apply as to guarantee. These properties may or may not conform to code requirements. Selling brokers will orally inform purchasers of the foregoing prior to execution of sales contract. Prices are minimum acceptable subject to sealed bid procedure. Special provisions applicable to lead paint treatment will apply. $150 sales bonus applys to all as-is offerings. The right is reserved to hold as-is offers for a maximum of ten days from date of bid opening. Bid requirements will conform generally with those set out in Forms HUD-9662 and 9662-A as modified by this notice and copies of said forms are available upon request.

Until further notice all section 235 financing is suspended. Properties, designated as being available for 235 may be sold under Section 203 or with other non-assisted financing.

This listing represents an addendum to the monthly Public Information Release entitled "HUD - Acquired Properties Available for Sale or Rent" and is subject to the terms and conditions set out therein. Copies of said PIR are available upon request.

SUMMER HELP WANTED
Boys and Girls

Earn extra spending money this summer detasseling corn for ADeKalb Ag Research, Inc., Dekalb has several hundred acres of Hubrid seed corn production in the Charleston, Sikeston and Dexter areas. We need several hundred people to assist us with the job of detasseling the female parent in order to make the hybrid. Most tassels are removed mechanically by cutter, but ground crews complete the job.

We will organize all interested persons into crews with a responsible crew leader in charge. Tassels are pulled by hand.
Work days will be approximately 7:00 am until 3:00 or 4:00 pm, six days a week and maybe a couple of Sundays. Approximate starting date will be the latter part of June.
Crew leades will pick up their crews at central pick up points.
Pay will be $2.00 /hour straight time and time and a half on Sunday.
Work will last two to three weeks, We do not work in storms, but do work in the mud after rains

CREW LEADERS NEEDED

We need several crew leaders (18 yrs. or older) to be in charge of the crew. You must have a vehicle for which you will be compensated, to haul the crew of 7 persons to the field locations. Pay would be $2.80 /hour. Time and a half on Sundays.

DETASSELING MACHINE OPERATORS NEEDED

Must be at least 18 years of age and have experience with handling machinery. Must have own transportation. Pay will be $3.00 /hour and time and half on Sundays.
Anyone interested should contact their school counselor at Charleston, East Prairie, Sikeston, Matthews, Richland, Bernie or Dexter; or, you can fill out the form below and mail to:

NSM — No stated minimum price. These properties are offered as-is in Period II only on a one-time basis with reserve and HUD retains the right to refuse any and all offers.

Properties not sold at Tuesday bid-openings are automatically deleted herefrom pending Period changes, price adjustments and other actions by HUD, and will be relisted in the earliest practicable Friday advertisement.

Bid openings will normally be held on Tuesdays unless a legal holiday falls thereon in which case bids will be opened the next day, Wednesday. Normal Monday deadlines will be changed to preceding Fridays when a legal holiday falls on Monday. Otherwise intervening holidays will have no effect on the ten-calendar-day offering periods.

As-is offerings are listed for sale "AS-IS" with no warranty, not eligible for FHA mortgage insurance, all cash. The provisions of paragraph II of the sales contract do not apply as to guarantee. These properties may or may not conform to code requirements. Selling brokers will orally inform purchasers of the foregoing prior to execution of sales contract. Prices are minimum acceptable subject to sealed bid procedure. Special provisions applicable to lead paint treatment will apply. $150 sales bonus applys to all as-is offerings. The right is reserved to hold as-is offers for a maximum of ten days from date of bid opening. Bid requirements will conform generally with those set out in Forms HUD-9662 and 9662-A as modified by this notice and copies of said forms are available upon request.

Until further notice all section 235 financing is suspended. Properties, designated as being available for 235 may be sold under Section 203 or with other non-assisted financing.

This listing represents an addendum to the monthly Public Information Release entitled "HUD - Acquired Properties Available for Sale or Rent" and is subject to the terms and conditions set out therein. Copies of said PIR are available upon request.

SUMMER HELP WANTED
Boys and Girls

Earn extra spending money this summer detasseling corn for ADeKalb Ag Research, Inc., Dekalb has several hundred acres of Hubrid seed corn production in the Charleston, Sikeston and Dexter areas. We need several hundred people to assist us with the job of detasseling the female parent in order to make the hybrid. Most tassels are removed mechanically by cutter, but ground crews complete the job.

We will organize all interested persons into crews with a responsible crew leader in charge. Tassels are pulled by hand.
Work days will be approximately 7:00 am until 3:00 or 4:00 pm, six days a week and maybe a couple of Sundays. Approximate starting date will be the latter part of June.
Crew leades will pick up their crews at central pick up points.
Pay will be $2.00 /hour straight time and time and a half on Sunday.
Work will last two to three weeks, We do not work in storms, but do work in the mud after rains

CREW LEADERS NEEDED

We need several crew leaders (18 yrs. or older) to be in charge of the crew. You must have a vehicle for which you will be compensated, to haul the crew of 7 persons to the field locations. Pay would be $2.80 /hour. Time and a half on Sundays.

DETASSELING MACHINE OPERATORS NEEDED

Must be at least 18 years of age and have experience with handling machinery. Must have own transportation. Pay will be $3.00 /hour and time and half on Sundays.
Anyone interested should contact their school counselor at Charleston, East Prairie, Sikeston, Matthews, Richland, Bernie or Dexter; or, you can fill out the form below and mail to:

And, sometimes a lot
of years have to go by to really know how much
one little word can mean.
word years

It may just be the sweetest word
in the language.
It may just have more meanings, too.
Like love and tenderness and caring
...to name a few.

Sikeston merchants have put a lot of thought into selecting the perfect things to give. You'll find little luxuries and practical gifts.
The way each one says 'Thank you' on this day may vary, but some things just never do change at all...LIKE MOTHERS!

Mother

And, sometimes a lot
of years have to go by to
really know how much
one little word can mean.
word years

It may just be the sweetest word
in the language.
It may just have more meanings, too.
Like love and tenderness and caring
...to name a few.

Sikeston merchants have put a lot of thought into selecting the perfect things to give. You'll find little luxuries and practical gifts.
The way each one says 'Thank you' on this day may vary, but some things just never do change at all...LIKE MOTHERS!

FRIDAY

8:00 "MUHAMMAD ALI vs. RON LYLE WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP"-World Heavyweight Champion Muhammand Ali will make his first live, home television title defense since 1966 when he fights Ron Lyle of Denver, Colorado in Las Vegas, Nevada. Reporting all the action from ringside will be ABC Sportscaster and boxing authority Howard Cosell.

10:30 CBS LATE MOVIE "GARBOYLES" Stars Cornel Wilde and Jennifer Salt--An anthropologist and his photographer daughter, en route from California to Mexico to research a book on demonology, are menanced by horrific creatures resembling monsters of ancient legent. The bizarre adventure begins when the couple discovers a museum skelton of a creature so grotesuque that they think it's a hoax. Their skepticism is short-lived, however, when the creature's decendants--the gargoyles-- go on a rampage to recover the skelton.

Valuable Swine

For the small Namba people of Malekula Island in the New Hebrides, only "tusker" pigs can buy the important things in life — a wife, a better slot in society, or instruction in rituals. When a male pig is a year old, its upper canine teeth are knocked out to permit lower tusks to grow in a graceful circle. The greater the tusks' curvature, the higher the pig's value.

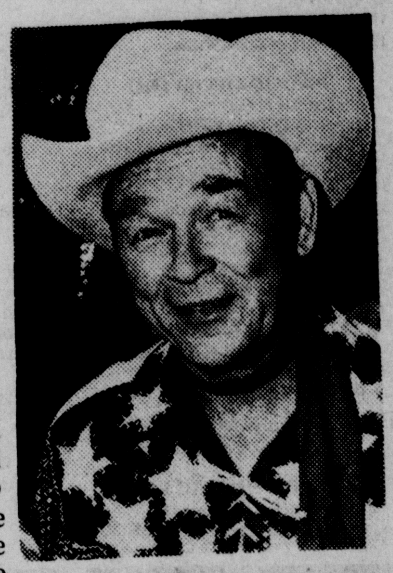
Roy Rogers Riding a Happy Trail

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you remember Roy Rogers riding along on Trigger, strumming a guitar and singing a Western song in one of his many Western movies, you've got an inventive memory. He never did.

"Riding a horse and playing a guitar isn't exactly the easiest thing in the world, and it doesn't look too good, either." Rogers, sitting behind a big desk — "They're trying to make me look like an executive" — in a department store where he'll soon autograph copies of his new LP, talked in a relaxed, friendly way about old days and new.

"They'd have me ride along and pick a guitar off a cactus bush and start singing. That has been written in a script but it wasn't there when I got through with it. You can have background music sneak in. You can sing on a horse. Dale (Dale Evans, his wife since 1947) and I have done that, but we weren't playing any instruments."



ROY ROGERS

Rogers is being considered for another movie, to be made next year. "Unless it's a good story, something you're not afraid to take your children and your wife to, I'm not going to do it. They all know that; they're trying to get some family-type story with a lot of action, maybe some music—as long as they don't drag the music in by the heels.

"I can't stand to see a song start off for no reason — especially when it stops a good story. I used to fight that all the time when I was making my Westerns. I'd say, 'Let's have a rodeo or a party at old Joe's house. Then we can sing.' "

These days, songs are being collected by Snuff Garrett for a second LP on 20th Century Records. Garrett, Rogers says, "lost his father when he was a youngster and I guess I took a little portion of that over. He was stomping around trying to find a job and started his own publishing and recording company with a few bucks. He wanted to meet me and did and we became good friends. He came up to the ranch and we did some skeet shooting and he said he had an idea for a song for me but he hadn't written it yet.

"In two weeks he sent 'Hoppy, Gene and Me' up to me and I liked it." Rogers recorded it, with Garrett producing, and it was on the best-selling pop chart in January and February. In April, the LP "Happy Trails to You" came out, including that song.

"It did well because of the nostalgia idea," Rogers says. "There's one very pretty song on the record — I think it's pretty — 'A Very Fine Lady.' There are three old songs I did in pictures, a medley of trail songs, 'The Old Spanish Trail,' 'Along the Navajo Trail' and 'Blue Shadows on the Trail.' And there's our theme song, 'Happy Trails to You.' That'll be coming out as a single.

"Dale wrote it for a series of TV shows we did. We only needed it for a sign-off, so she never finished it. Before the recording was made, I wrote a verse for it. It turned out real good."

Rogers, who was born in Cincinnati and whose family moved to California when he was 17, met Bob Nolan in 1932. "In the next two years we worked on developing the Sons of the Pioneers. From 1934 to '36 we worked at radio station KFWB, in Los Angeles. We asked for our release — I don't know how we had the nerve to — we were making $35 a week, more money than I'd ever heard of till then. We had an opportunity to go to Dallas for the centennial of Texas. We were there several months and came back and went to work on the Hollywood Barn Dance on radio in 1937.
